The Myriad Legacies of 1917
A Year of War and Revolution
M. Abbenhuis, N. Atkinson, K. Baird, G. Romano (Eds.)

- Examines the myriad legacies of the key year of war and revolution: 1917
- Brings together experts from across the world to focus on the political, social, cultural, and economic implications of 1917
- Considers the impact of 1917 on a global, national and local scale

This book explores the ramifications of 1917, arguing that it was a cataclysmic year in world history. In this volume, thirteen scholars reflect on the myriad legacies of the year 1917 as a year of war, revolution, upheaval and change. Crisscrossing the globe and drawing on a range of disciplinary approaches, from military, social and economic history to museum, memory and cultural studies, [...]

Globalization, Democracy and Oil Sector Reform in Nigeria
A. O. Akinola

- Unravels the complexities of oil wealth management in Nigeria
- Provides empirical and theoretical frameworks for other developing countries navigating economic or institutional reforms, especially in the natural resource sector
- Appeals to scholars in the fields of political science, political economy, global politics, public policy and administration, resource studies, and development studies

The Nigerian state has been oil-rich for decades, and yet perennially incapable of converting its oil resources into wealth for ordinary Nigerians. Adeoye O. Akinola tackles this “vexed” oil question by examining the political economy of efforts to deregulate the Nigerian downstream oil industry. Focusing on themes of globalization and democratization, this book considers how a resource-rich [...]?

Health and Safety in Contemporary Britain
Society, Legitimacy, and Change since 1960
P. Almond, M. Esbester

- Charts the development of modern British health and safety, in response to ideas around risk society, managerialism, regulatory capitalism, and demographic and economic changes in the workplace
- Draws on interviews, detailed archival research, and a review of both academic and policy literature
- Contextualises recent debates over voluntarism and identity, the limits of political consensus, and the commercialisation of health and safety

This book analyses the perceived legitimacy of health and safety in post-1960 British public life. Since 2010 health and safety has appeared to be in crisis, being attacked by press, politicians and public alike, but are these claims of crisis accurate? How have understandings of health and safety changed over the past 60 years? By exploring the history, culture, and operation of health and [...]?

Socialism before Sanders
The 1930s Moment from Romance to Revisionism
J. Altman

- Establishes the significance and scope of the socialist revival in the 1930s, the importance of its most radical elements, its successes and limitations at the local level, and how its participants evolved through the 1940s and beyond
- Foregrounds the development of two key institutions, Soviet House and the Highlander Folk School
- Connects the 1930s revival to the successes of the Socialist Party in the early twentieth century and to American politics today

The early years of the twentieth century are often thought of as socialism’s first heyday in the United States, when the Socialist Party won elections across the country and Eugene Debs ran for president from a prison cell, winning more than 900,000 votes. Less well-known is the socialist revival of the 1930s. Radicalized by the contradiction of crushing poverty and unimaginable wealth [...]

Napoleon’s Hundred Days and the Politics of Legitimacy
K. Astbury, M. Philp (Eds.)

- Explores different dimensions of French responses to Napoleon’s return to power in 1815
- Considers British cultural responses to Napoleon’s return, including theatre, song and print media
- Examines the impact of Napoleon’s Hundred Days on events within Europe, and internationally

This book examines the politics of legitimacy as they played out across Europe in response to Napoleon’s dramatic return to power in France after his exile to Elba in 1814. Napoleon had to re-establish his claim to power with initially minimal military resources. Moreover, as the rest of Europe united against him, he had to marshal popular support for his new regime, while simultaneously [...]

Historical Perspectives on Democracies and their Adversaries
J. Augusteijn, C. Hijzen, M. L. de Vries (Eds.)

• Explores how democratic regimes have dealt with anti-democratic forces in society, from the late nineteenth to the early twenty-first century
• Takes a historical rather than a theoretical approach to show how the state and oppositional groups have interacted across a wide range of case studies
• Argues that these threats to democracy and the actions taken against anti-democratic groups have elicited new definitions of democracy within society

This book historicizes the debate over how democratic regimes deal with anti-democratic groupings in society. Democracies across the world increasingly find themselves under threat from enemies, ranging from terrorists to parties and movements that undermine democratic […]

An Armenian Mediterranean Words and Worlds in Motion
K. Babayan, M. Pifer (Eds.)

• Offers fresh perspectives on the study of Armenian history, literature, and visual culture
• Appeals to scholars of comparative literature, global history, Mediterranean studies, Armenian studies, and medieval history
• Draws from and contributes to a wide array of comparative and theoretical frameworks, including world history, world literature, and Mediterranean studies

This book rethinks the Armenian people as significant actors in the context of Mediterranean and global history. Spanning a millennium of cross-cultural interaction and exchange across the Mediterranean world, essays move between connected histories, frontier studies, comparative literature, and discussions of trauma, memory, diaspora, and visual culture. Contributors dismantle narrow, […]

The Tokyo Trial, Justice, and the Postwar International Order
A. Babovic

• Challenges the predominant view of the Tokyo Trial by observing it as a politico-legal event
• Offers a deep conceptualization of the Trial by using relevant disciplines, history and international criminal law
• Covers not only the Trial but also the temporal grid well beyond its end in 1948

Fully utilizing the latest archival material, this book provides a comprehensive, multi-dimensional and nuanced understanding of the Tokyo Tribunal by delving into the temporal aspects that extended the relevance and reverberations of the Tribunal beyond its end in 1948. With this as a backdrop, this book contributes to the study of Japanese postwar diplomacy. It shows the Tokyo Tribunal is […]

Personal Narratives, Peripheral Theatres: Essays on the Great War (1914–18)
A. Barker, M. E. Pereira, M. T. Cortez, P. A. Pereira, O. Martins (Eds.)

- Offers a different perspective: from theaters and also from the home front, as part of the specialist bibliography that this 4-year-long event has inspired
- Explores topics that are rarely covered in the fields of history and cultural studies
- Widens our understanding of the impact of this cataclysm, generally seen through the prism of the main combatant countries, and notably in the context of the Western Front

This book is a collection of essays on neglected aspects of the Great War. It begins by asking what exactly was so “Great” about it, before turning to individual studies of various aspects of the war. These fall broadly into two categories. Firstly, personal, micro-narratives that deal directly with the experience of war, often derived from contemporary interest in diaries and oral histories. […]

Post-War Eugenics, Reproductive Choices and Population Policies in Greece, 1950s–1980s
A. Barmpouti

- Offers new insights into the eugenics and birth control movement in Greece to show the continuity of eugenics during the post-war period
- Presents research from previously unexplored Greek, American and British archives
- Situates the Greek case within an international context, exploring the development of a network of Greek, American and British eugenicists

This book sheds light on the history of Greek eugenics during the post-war period. At this time, eugenics had already been condemned by international declarations. Alexandra Barmpouti, however, challenges the assumption that eugenics disappeared and confirms the continuity of eugenics after the Second World War. She looks at the Greek paradigm because it included the establishment of a […]

Ireland and Masculinities in History
R. A. Barr, S. Brady, J. McGaughey (Eds.)

- Examines how expressions of masculinity have been central to Irish history from the eighteenth to the twenty-first century
- Engages with the cultural and social possibilities inherent in understanding gender as historically contingent, shifting and multiform
- Promotes new and creative avenues for questioning how gender has shaped Ireland’s past, present and future

This edited collection presents a selection of essays on the history of Irish masculinities. Beginning with representations of masculinity in eighteenth-century drama, economics, and satire, and concluding with work on the politics of masculinity post Good-Friday Agreement in Northern Ireland, the collection advances the importance of masculinities in our understanding of Irish history and […]

Genders and Sexualities in History
Family Life in Britain, 1650–1910
C. Beardmore, C. Dobbing, S. King (Eds.)

- Expands our understanding of the pillars of family history in Britain from the sixteenth to twentieth century
- Utilises an inter-disciplinary approach to explore the ways that families were formed and responded to challenges they faced
- Argues that families and households had porous boundaries and were essentially fluid and able to reconstitute themselves

This book explores the ways that families were formed and re-formed, and held together and fractured, in Britain from the sixteenth to twentieth century. The chapters build upon the argument, developed in the 1990s and 2000s, that the nuclear family form, the bedrock of understandings of the structure and function of family and kinship units, provides a wholly inadequate lens through which to [...]

- Covers the 1968 student movement, the New Left, the peace movement, the women's movement and the solidarity movement
- Contributes to the growing body of work that takes transnational approaches to twentieth-century social movements

This book explores the relationship between diverse social movements and Marxist historical cultures during the second half of the [...]
Abolitionism and the Persistence of Slavery in Italian States, 1750–1850
G. Bonazza

- Offers the first comprehensive study of slavery in the Italian states from 1750 to 1850
- Examines the international abolitionist debate and post-abolition survival of slavery in the Italian states
- Appeals to scholars of Italian history, the history of slavery, Atlantic history, global history, and imperial history

This volume offers a pioneering study of slavery in the Italian states. Documenting previously unstudied cases of slavery in six Italian cities—Naples, Caserta, Rome, Palermo, Livorno and Genoa—Giulia Bonazza investigates why slavery survived into the middle of the nineteenth century, even as the abolitionist debate raged internationally and most states had abolished it. Bondage and the Environment in the Indian Ocean World
G. Campbell (Ed.)

- Presents the first serious study of the relationship between bondage and climate
- Comprises essays from leading experts on the history of bondage in the Indian Ocean world
- Examines the complex set of environmental, economic, and political conditions which have helped to drive and shape human bondage in the Indian Ocean world

Monsoon rains, winds, and currents have shaped patterns of production and exchange in the Indian Ocean world (IOW) for centuries. Consequently, as this volume demonstrates, the environment has also played a central role in determining the region's systems of bondage and human trafficking. Human Rights, Transitional Justice, and the Reconstruction of Political Order in Latin America
M. F. Carmody

- Examines transitional justice as a tool of the state for transforming political culture and securing state authority
- Draws from the disciplines of history, sociology and cultural studies in order to analyze post-Cold War state formation in Latin America
- Moves beyond the focus on the origins of human rights to examines how human rights have been instrumentalized since the Cold War through the present

In Argentina and elsewhere in Latin America, decades after the fall of authoritarian regimes in the 1970s, transitional justice has proven to be anything but transitional—it has become a cornerstone of state policy and a powerful tool of state formation. Contextualizing cultural and political shifts in Argentina after the 1976 military coup with comparisons to other countries in the Southern [...]

The Fall of France in the Second World War
History and Memory
R. Carswell

- Examines how the fall of France in the Second World War has been explained and remembered by historians and society more widely
- Argues that most explanations of the fall of France focus on four main themes – decadence, failure, constraint and contingency
- Explores the context and constraints which influenced the decisions made by French policy-makers and the effect this had on the nation

This book examines how the fall of France in the Second World War has been recorded by historians and remembered within society. It argues that explanations of the fall have usually revolved around the four main themes of decadence, failure, constraint and contingency. It shows that the dominant explanation claimed for many years that the fall was the inevitable consequence of a society grown [...]

Histories of Global Inequality
New Perspectives
C. O. Christiansen, S. L. B. Jensen (Eds.)

- Singles out some of the most pressing themes in historical research on global inequality today
- Brings together fourteen essays from specialists across the history of inequality, of human rights, of decolonization and social movements, and of the contemporary history of global governance
- Presents a broad range of geographical contexts using qualitative approaches, supporting existing data sets and statistical overviews

This book argues that inequality is not just about numbers, but is also about lived, historical experience. It supplements economic research and offers a comprehensive stocktaking of existing thinking on global inequality and its historical development. The book is interdisciplinary, drawing upon regional and national perspectives from around the world while seeking to capture the [...]

The Transformation of Astrobiology in the Early Modern Period
J. E. Christie

- Offers a new theory on the decline of astrology in the 17th and 18th centuries
- Shows the role of astrological tradition in early theories of extraterrestrial life
- Discusses astrobiology, combining the search for ET life with the study of terrestrial biology

This book describes how and why the early modern period witnessed the marginalisation of astrology in Western natural philosophy, and the re-adoption of the cosmological view of the existence of a plurality of worlds in the universe, allowing the possibility of extraterrestrial life. Founded in the mid-1990s, the discipline of astrobiology combines the search for extraterrestrial life with the […]

Bodies, Love, and Faith in the First World War
Dardanella and Peter
N. Christie, M. Gauvreau

- Charts the relationship and marriage of Gwyneth Murray and Harry Logan, through their personal correspondence from 1911-1919
- Explores conflicted and complex attempts to frame male and female self-identity during a period of cultural flux
- Demonstrates that ‘normative’ heterosexuality was not a fixed category in Edwardian society, but had to be constantly rearticulated

This book explores the courtship and marriage of Gwyneth Murray, an English woman, and a Canadian, Harry Logan, who wrote in the personae of their vagina (Dardanella) and penis (Peter) during World War I. Through an analysis of their extensive daily correspondence over nearly a decade, it uncovers the couple’s changing attitudes to the intersection of sexuality and religion, to marriage and […]

America’s Failing Economy and the Rise of Ronald Reagan
E. R. Crouse

- Analyzes the economic crisis of the 1970s and the subsequent 1980 presidential campaign as a watershed era in American history
- Weaves a vivid, accessible narrative of Keynesian thought and American politics in the 1970s
- Appeals to scholars and students of American economic history, Keynesian economics, and twentieth-century American politics

This book examines one of the most important economic outcomes in American history—the breakdown of the Keynesian Revolution. Drawing on economic literature, the memoirs of economists and politicians, and the popular press, Eric Crouse examines how economic decline in the 1970s precipitated a political revolution. Keynesian thought flourished through the presidencies of Lyndon B. Johnson, […]

The Velestino Hoard
Casting Light on the Byzantine ‘Dark Ages’
F. Curta, B. S. Szmoniewski

- Examines, in detail, the origins, iconography and purpose of the Velestino hoard
- Explores the Byzantine cultural and political context in which the Velestino hoard was created
- Provides fresh insights into a poorly studied period of Byzantine history

This book examines the remarkable Velestino hoard, found in Thessaly in the 1920s, and analyses the light that this collection of artifacts sheds on a poorly studied period of Byzantine history, and on largely neglected aspects of Byzantine civilization. Many collections of Byzantine gold- and silverware, such as Vrap and Seuso, have been surrounded by controversy. None, however, has been […]

The Religious Left in Modern America
Doorkeepers of a Radical Faith
L. Danielson, M. Mollin, D. Rossinow (Eds.)
- Offers a comparative and long-term perspective on the intersecting histories of religious radicalism and the secular left
- Challenges the perception that religion is antagonistic to democratic politics and culture
- Chapters explore a diverse range of religious groups that contributed to the key social movements of the twentieth century
This edited collection of exciting new scholarship provides comprehensive coverage of the broad sweep of twentieth century religious activism on the American left. The volume covers a diversity of perspectives, including Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish history, and [...]
The Changing Face of Early Modern Time, 1550–1770
J. Desborough

- Explores the changing use of clocks and watches from 1550-1770 to offer new insights into early modern perceptions of time
- Focuses on the design of dials, showing how their shifting functions and appearances are central to knowledge transmission during this period
- Considers the wider context of literature, emotion and temporality, connecting changing ideas about time with other aspects of early modern culture

This book provides a reinterpretation of early modern clock and watch dials on the basis of use. Between 1550 and the emergence of a standard format in 1770, dials represented combinations of calendrical, lunar and astronomical information using multiple concentric rings, subsidiary dials and apertures. Change was gradual, but significant. Over the course of eight chapters and with reference […]

Resistance and Colonialism
Insurgent Peoples in World History
N. Domingos, M. B. Jerónimo, R. Roque (Eds.)

- Proposes a critical re-examination of resistance in colonial and anti-colonial thought
- Explores new ways of thinking about resistance and colonialism during the period of modern European imperialism in the light of renewed interest in resistance studies
- Chapters cover a range of case studies, from ‘hidden’ accounts using oral and written records, to local case studies and transnational perspectives

This volume offers a critical re-examination of colonial and anti-colonial resistance imageries and practices in imperial history. It offers a fresh critique of both pejorative and celebratory readings of ‘insurgent peoples’, and it seeks to revitalize the study of […]

Italian Renaissance Utopias
Doni, Patrizi, and Zuccolo
A. Donato

- Provides the first English study of five prominent Italian Renaissance utopias by Anton Francesco Doni, Francesco Patrizi of Cherso and Lodovico Zuccolo
- Explores how the study of Doni, Patrizi, and Zuccolo sheds light on the debate about the essential traits of Renaissance utopias
- Includes comprehensive introductory essays, notes, and translations of this set of utopian texts to further our understanding of these texts

This book provides the first English study (comprehensive of introductory essays, translations, and notes) of five prominent Italian Renaissance utopias: Doni’s Wise and Crazy World, Patrizi’s The Happy City, and Zuccolo’s The Republic of Utopia, The Republic of Evandria, and The Happy City. Civilians Under Siege from Sarajevo to Troy
A. Dowdall, J. Horne (Eds.)

- Analyses siege warfare as a discrete type of military engagement from ancient to modern times
- Examines the hitherto neglected effects of siege warfare on civilians
- Deploys a distinctive regressive method in order to avoid teleological interpretations

This edited volume analyses siege warfare as a discrete type of military engagement, in the face of which civilians are particularly vulnerable. Siege warfare is a form of combat that has usually had devastating effects on civilian populations. From the near-contemporary Siege of Sarajevo to the real and mythical sieges of the ancient Mediterranean, this has been a recurring type of military [...]

The Belgian Army and Society from Independence to the Great War
M. Draper

- Explores the complicated relationship between the Belgian army and society from 1830 to 1914
- Provides insight into the concepts of citizenship, nationalism and militarisation in a divided society
- Argues that the Belgian army failed to foster a unified national identity from independence to the start of the First World War

This book explores Belgian state-building through the prism of its army from independence to the First World War. It argues that party-politics, which often ran along geographical, linguistic, and religious lines, prevented both Flemings and Walloons from reconciling their regional identities into a unified concept of Belgian nationalism. Equally, it obstructed the army from satisfactorily [...]

The Irish Medical Profession and the First World War
D. Durnin

- Examines the role of the Irish medical profession during the First World War
- Uncovers the key concerns related to Irish medical involvement in the British Army in the First World War and highlights the broader significance of the conflict on the twentieth-century development of Irish healthcare
- Considers both the physical, mental and emotional impact of war on Irish doctors and nurses, as well as the effect of war on the development of Ireland’s domestic medical infrastructure

Critically Mediterranean
Temporalities, Aesthetics, and Deployments of a Sea in Crisis
y. elhariry, E. T. Talbayev (Eds.)
- Liberates the Mediterranean from land-bound and historicist constructs
- Features a unique focus on the Mediterranean in the modern period, rather than the medieval or early modern
- Appeals to scholars of Mediterranean studies, memory studies, comparative literature, and history
Traversed by masses of migrants and wracked by environmental and economic change, the Mediterranean has come to connote crisis. In this context, Critically Mediterranean asks how the theories and methodologies of Mediterranean studies may be brought to bear upon the modern and contemporary periods. Contributors explore how the Mediterranean informs philosophy, phenomenology, the poetics of [...]

The American Press and the Cold War
The Rise of Authoritarianism in South Korea, 1945–1954
O. Elliott
- Features the first scholarly study of American press coverage of South Korea in the 1940s and 1950s
- Examines the political, military, institutional, cultural, ideological, and personal factors that influenced American journalists covering South Korea
- Documents the largely forgotten stories of the foreign correspondents who sought to warn the United States about the rise of authoritarianism in South Korea as well as the efforts of the South Korean government to influence American public opinion
During the Cold War, the United States enabled the rise of President Syngman Rhee's repressive government in South Korea, and yet neither the American occupation nor Rhee's growing authoritarianism ever became particularly controversial news stories in the United States. [...]

Transforming Empire in Japan and East Asia
The Taiwan Expedition and the Birth of Japanese Imperialism
R. Eskildsen
- Examines the history of a military expedition the Japanese government sent to southern Taiwan in 1874
- Explores the Japanese government's colonial intent, and its justification that a state must spread civilization and political authority to territories where it claimed sovereignty, thereby challenging Chinese authority in East Asia and consolidating its power domestically.
- Considers the origins of Japanese imperialism as emerging as part of the process of consolidating government power after the Meiji Restoration in a dynamic relationship with Western imperialism

The Origins of Ethnic Conflict in Africa
Politics and Violence in Darfur, Oromia, and the Tana Delta
T. Etefa

- Offers a comparative study of three armed ethnic conflicts in three East African countries, in order to deepen our understanding of the political and transnational dimensions of ethnic conflict
- Argues that poor political governance and misuse of power by elites, rather than resource competition, ethnic diversity, or climate change, are the most fundamental causes of internal ethnic conflict
- Suggests political solutions to mitigate armed conflicts in Africa

From Darfur to the Rwandan genocide, journalists, policymakers, and scholars have blamed armed conflicts in Africa on ancient hatreds or competition for resources. Here, Tsega Etefa compares three such cases—the Darfur conflict between Arabs and non-Arabs, the Gumuz and Oromo clashes in Western Oromia, and [...]

The Worlds of Positivism
A Global Intellectual History, 1770–1930
J. Feichtinger, F. L. Fillafer, J. Surman (Eds.)

- Presents the first global history of positivism
- Explores the relationship between natural sciences and the humanities, science and religion, and universalism and cultural diversity on a global scale through Positivism’s culture of enquiry
- Provides a genealogy of scientific governance, with important social and ethical implications for today

This book is the first to trace the origins and significance of positivism on a global scale. Taking their cues from Auguste Comte and John Stuart Mill, positivists pioneered a universal, experience-based culture of scientific inquiry for studying nature and society—a new science that would enlighten all of humankind. Positivists envisaged one world united by science, but their efforts spawned [...]

Colonial Justice and Decolonization in the High Court of Tanzania, 1920-1971

- Provides the first account of the development and decolonization of a British colonial high court in Africa, as well as the first account of the development and decline of the Colonial Legal Service
- Takes a new approach to the study of decolonization, shifting the focus from the moment of independence toward more subtle changes in colonial state institutions
- Shows how the decolonization process maintained most British judicial attributes and practices, while removing features that reinforced colonial authority

This book is the first study of the development and decolonization of a British colonial high court in Africa. It traces the history of the High Court of [...]

Magic and Witchery in the Modern West
Celebrating the Twentieth Anniversary of 'The Triumph of the Moon'
S. Feraro, E. Doyle White (Eds.)

- Presents a range of new and innovative studies on Wicca and related forms of modern occult and Pagan witchcraft
- Builds upon the pioneering work of Professor Ronald Hutton on modern Western beliefs regarding magic and witchcraft
- Examines Paganism and occultism from a range of perspectives including historical, anthropological, and psychological ones

This book marks twenty years since the publication of Professor Ronald Hutton's The Triumph of the Moon, a major contribution to the historical study of Wicca. Building on and celebrating Hutton's pioneering work, the chapters in this volume explore a range of modern magical, occult, and Pagan groups active in Western nations. Juana I
Legitimacy and Conflict in Sixteenth-Century Castile
G. B. Fleming

- Cuts through romantic myth-making about Juana 'the Mad' to rethink her as a key political figure
- Examines the causes and circumstances of the comunero uprising of 1520–1522, perhaps the first modern revolutionary movement in Western Europe
- Appeals to scholars of queenship and late medieval and early modern European and Spanish history

This book examines the deep and lengthy crisis of legitimacy triggered by the death of Prince Juan of Castile and Aragon in 1497 and the subsequent ascent of Juana I to the throne in 1504. Confined by historiography and myth to the madwoman's attic, Juana emerges here as a key figure at the heart of a period of tremendous upheaval, reaching its peak in the war of the Comunidades, or comunero [...]

Biography and History in Film
T. Freeman, D. Smith (Eds.)

- Examines the relationship of biographical films from the 1920s to the 2010s to historical knowledge
- Demonstrates how films reflect changing understandings of historical figures and events
- Considers how the categories of race, gender and sexuality are represented in biographical film

The essays in this volume seek to analyze biographical films as representations of historical individuals and the times in which they lived. To do this, contributors examine the context in which certain biographical films were made, including the state of knowledge about their subjects at that moment, and what these films reveal about the values and purposes of those who created them. - Second volume in the European Astroculture trilogy
- Propels the historicization of outer space by focusing on the Post-Apollo era of crisis and reconfiguration
- Utilizes an international and transdisciplinary perspective to explore the cultural history of outer space

Limiting Outer Space propels the historicization of outer space by focusing on the Post-Apollo period. After the moon landings, disillusionment set in. Outer space, no longer considered the inevitable destination of human expansion, lost much of its popular appeal, cultural significance and political urgency. With the rapid waning of the worldwide Apollo frenzy, the optimism of the Space Age […]

- Examines how the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia operated since they were created
- Explores how narratives of the Khmer Rouge informs understandings of, and politics of, contemporary Cambodia
- Argues that the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia are an example of illiberal transitional justice

This book examines the creation and operation of the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia (ECCC), which is a hybrid domestic/international tribunal tasked with putting senior leaders of the Khmer Rouge on trial. It argues that the ECCC should be considered an example of illiberal transitional justice, where the language of procedure is strongly adhered to but political […]

Moral Ecologies
Histories of Conservation, Dispossession and Resistance
C. J. Griffin, R. Jones, I. J. M. Robertson (Eds.)

- Extends the concept of “moral ecology” developed by Karl Jacoby to case studies across Europe, Africa, Australia, Asia and the Americas
- Examines how conservation efforts dispossess local populations, particularly poor Indigenous peoples and settlers
- Features an afterword by Karl Jacoby

This book offers the first systematic study of how elite conservation schemes and policies define once customary and vernacular forms of managing common resources as banditry—and how the ‘bandits’ fight back. Drawing inspiration from Karl Jacoby’s seminal Crimes against Nature, this book takes Jacoby’s moral ecology and extends the concept beyond the founding of American national parks. From […]

Portraits of Edo and Early Modern Japan
The Shogun’s Capital in Zuhiitsu Writings, 1657–1855
G. Groemer

- Examines the old historical area of Edo, where Tokyo now stands
- Focuses on the literary voice of eye witnesses and the resulting ‘zuhiitsu’ chronicling
- Offers a unique insight into Japanese social, cultural, and political history, and the development of what was at the time the largest city in the world

This volume presents a series of five portraits of Edo, the central region of urban space today known as Tokyo, from the great fire of 1657 to the devastating earthquake of 1855. This book endeavors to allow Edo, or at least some of the voices that constituted Edo, to do most of the speaking. These voices become audible in the work of five Japanese eye-witness observers, who notated what they […]

- Brings together the authors' experiences as former activists against apartheid and their expertise in public history, historiography, and heritage studies
- Appeals to scholars and students of South African history, memory studies, public history, heritage studies, political history, and cultural history

The post-apartheid era in South Africa has, in the space of nearly two decades, experienced a massive memory boom, manifest in a plethora of new memorials and museums and in the renaming of streets, buildings, cities and more across the country. This memorialisation [...]
The Magic of Coin-Trees from Religion to Recreation
The Roots of a Ritual
C. Houlbrook

- Provides the first book-length study focusing specifically on, and cataloguing, British coin-trees
- Contributes to debates on the historic relationships between religion, ritual, and popular magic in British contexts
- Utilises an interdisciplinary approach, combining methodologies from folklore, anthropology and archaeology

This book traces the history of ritual landscapes in the British Isles, and the transition from religious practice to recreation, by focusing on a highly understudied exemplar: the coin-tree. These are trees imbued with magical properties into which coins have been ritually embedded. This is a contemporary custom which can be traced back in the literature to the 1700s, when it was practiced [...]

Human Trafficking and Security in Southern Africa
The South African and Mozambican Experience
R. O. Iroanya

- Provides a global overview of human trafficking and case studies with in-depth analysis of the issue in South Africa and Mozambique
- Offers frameworks and policy recommendations for understanding and addressing the security dimensions of human trafficking
- Analyzes existing international, regional, and national anti-trafficking legislation, with special focus on the region of Southern Africa

This book investigates the links between human trafficking and national security in Southern Africa. Human trafficking violates borders, supports organised crime and corrupts border officials, and yet policymakers rarely view the persistence of human trafficking [...]

Women’s Work in Special Period Cuba
Making Ends Meet
D. Jerónimo Kersh

- Examines women’s labor in post-Soviet Cuba, focusing on five main sources of income that women used to survive, including the black market, entrepreneurship, sex work, tourism sector work, and state employment, as well as combinations of work in different sectors
- Uses the theoretical framework of individual and collective memory to illuminate labor conditions for Cuban women since 1989
- Builds upon the feminisation thesis that Cuban women were disproportionately affected by the post-Soviet Special Period economic crisis

The abrupt loss of Soviet financial support in 1989 resulted in the near-collapse of the Cuban economy, ushering in the almost two decades of austerity measures and severe shortages of food and basic consumer goods referred to as the Special Period. Through the innovative framework of individual and collective memory, Daliany Jerónimo Kersh brings together analysis of press sources and oral [...]

Imperial Ladies of the Ottonian Dynasty
Women and Rule in Tenth-Century Germany
P. G. Jestice
- Examines elite Ottonian women, particularly Theophanu and Adelheid, in the context of attitudes toward women in Germany of the central Middle Ages
- Presents arguments against the concept of exceptionalism—the idea that Ottonian royal women were treated and had powers very different from those of non-royal women
- Appeals to students and scholars of medieval history, German history, queenship and monarchy studies, and gender studies

In tenth-century Europe and particularly in Germany, imperial women were able to wield power in ways that were scarcely imaginable in earlier centuries. Theophanu and Adelheid were two of the most influential figures in the Ottonian reich along with their [...]

Indian Cotton Textiles in West Africa
K. Kobayashi

- Explores how West African consumers shaped patterns of global trade, influencing economies in Western Europe, South Asia and the Americas
- Offers a new perspective on the history of South-South globalization during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries
- Reveals the important role played by Indian cotton textiles in the transatlantic slave trade

This book focuses on the significant role of West African consumers in the development of the global economy. It explores their demand for Indian cotton textiles and how their consumption shaped patterns of global trade, influencing economies and businesses from Western Europe to South Asia. In turn, the book examines how cotton textile production in southern India responded to this demand. […]

Becoming a Queen in Early Modern Europe
East and West
K. Kosior

- Offers the first study to compare early modern Polish and French ceremonies accompanying Jagiellonian and Valois royal weddings, coronations and childbirth
- Explores the dynamic between the pan-European royal culture, French and Polish political cultures, and the practicalities of staging royal ceremonies
- Establishes Poland’s place in the tapestry of early modern European monarchy, challenging the central place of western Europe in the historiography

Queens of Poland are conspicuously absent from the study of European queenship—an absence which, together with early modern Poland’s marginal place in the historiography, results in a picture of European royal culture that can only be lopsided and incomplete. Katarzyna Kosior cuts through persistent stereotypes of an East-West dichotomy and a culturally isolated early modern Poland to offer a […]

Lived Religion and Everyday Life in Early Modern Hagiographic Material
J. Kuuliala, R. Peake, P. Räisänen-Schröder (Eds.)

- Offers cutting-edge insights into early modern social and cultural history
- Explores lived religion and experience through the prism of various hagiographic texts and art
- Argues that hagiographic material can be used to enhance our understanding of history beyond the medieval period

This book discusses the ways in which early modern hagiographic sources can be used to study lived religion and everyday life from the fifteenth to the seventeenth century. For several decades, saints’ lives, other spiritual biographies, miracle narratives, canonisation processes, iconography, and dramas, have been widely utilised in studies on medieval religious practices and social history. British Invasion and Spy Literature, 1871–1918
Historical Perspectives on Contemporary Society
D. Laurie-Fletcher

- Draws on literary sources to explore contemporary society during World War I
- Explores areas that have previously been neglected or marginalised in the study of invasion and spy literature
- Examines the content, audience, and reception of invasion and spy literature

This book examines British invasion and spy literature and the political, social, and cultural attitudes that it expresses. This form of literature began to appear towards the end of the nineteenth century and developed into a clearly recognised form during the Edwardian period (1901-1914). By looking at the origins and evolution of invasion literature, and to a lesser extent detective [...] About the author

Remembrance of the Great War in the Irish Free State, 1914–1937
Specters of Empire
M. Link

- Highlights the connections between war, memory, empire and decolonization in early Free State Ireland
- Explores the private acts of remembrance of Irishmen who served in the British Army during the First World War against the changing political landscape of revolutionary and independent Ireland
- Argues that the Great War was a far more integral and powerful part of Irish national identity in the early twentieth century than has previously been asserted

This book focuses on how Irish remembrance of the First World War impacted the emerging Irish identity in the postcolonial Irish Free State. While all combatants of the "war to end all wars" commemorated the war, Irish memorial efforts were fraught with debate over Irish identity and politics that frequently resulted in violence against commemorators and World War I veterans. The book examines [...]

 Mrs Humphry Ward and Greenian Philosophy
Religion, Society and Politics
H. Loader

- Presents the Victorian writer and reformer Mary Ward (Mrs Humphry Ward) as a Greenian woman by examining the philosophy of Thomas Hill Green
- Provides insight into how Victorian and early-Edwardian women overcame gendered boundaries to participate in debates about British idealism
- Takes an interdisciplinary approach to examine Mrs Humphry Ward’s contribution to British society

This book examines Mary Ward’s distinctive insight into late-Victorian and Edwardian society as a famous writer and reformer, who was inspired by the philosopher and British idealist, Thomas Hill Green. As a talented woman who had studied among Oxford University intellectuals in the 1870s, and the granddaughter of Dr Arnold of Rugby, Mrs Humphry Ward (as she was best known) was in a unique [...]

Population Registers and Privacy in Britain, 1936—1984
K. Manton

- Surveys the various attitudes and debates on centralised registration from the wartime population register to the 1984 Data Protection Act
- Examines the context in which Margaret Thatcher’s government passed the 1984 Data Protection Act
- Explores how the issues discussed in this period leading up to the Data Protection Act are still relevant to current debates on personal data

This book examines the fraught political relationship between British governments, which wanted information about peoples lives, and the people who desired privacy. To do this it looks at something that Britain only experienced in wartime, a centralized and up-to-date list of everyone in the country: a population register. The abolition of this wartime system is contrasted with later attempts [...]

- Examines the Cyprus Tribute within the framework of the Eastern Question and Ottoman bankruptcy
- Analyses how Anglo-Cypriot relations were impacted by the Cyprus Tribute and subsequent fiscal policies
- Uses the Cyprus Tribute as a prism through which to scrutinise political developments of the time

This book examines the history of the Cyprus Tribute, and takes a longer and broader view of the issue than previous studies. It analyses the regional context of the decision to use revenue surpluses for the repayment of debt within the framework of the Eastern Question and Ottoman bankruptcy. Royal Rage and the Construction of Anglo-Norman Authority, c. 1000-1250
K. McGrath

- Offers the first in-depth evaluation of the representation of royal anger in eleventh- and twelfth-century historical narratives
- Analyzes the development of norms for royal anger and how Anglo-Norman and later English kings used anger as a political strategy
- Explores how ecclesiastical historians both assisted and circumscribed the expansion of royal authority

This book explores how eleventh- and twelfth-century Anglo-Norman ecclesiastical authors attributed anger to kings in the exercise of their duties, and how such attributions related to larger expansions of royal authority. It argues that ecclesiastical writers used their works to legitimize certain displays of royal anger, often resulting in violence, while at the same time deploying a shared [...]

Suicide, Law, and Community in Early Modern Sweden
R. Miettinen

- Explores how the indictment, investigation, and classification of suspected suicides was undertaken in early modern Sweden
- Analyzes how the interpretations of the courts were influenced by the social status and local ties of the deceased
- Investigates the phenomenon of suicide in early modern Sweden and the hardships and crises behind it

This book explores the judicial treatment of suicides in early modern Sweden, with a focus on the criminal investigation and selective treatment of suicides in the lower courts in the seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries. La Niña and the Making of Climate Optimism

Remembering Rain

J. Miller

- Explores the Australian relationship with La Niña and how fundamental this relationship is to the climate change debate both locally and globally
- Examines the deep connection Australians have to their climate in order to deconstruct contemporary views on human-induced climate change
- Argues that the wet La Niñas and the dry El Niños underpinned a resilient climate optimism

This book examines the deep connection Australians have with their climate to understand contemporary views on human-induced climate change. It is the first study of the Australian relationship with La Niña and it explains how fundamental this relationship is to the climate change debate both locally and globally. While unease with the Australian environment was a hallmark of early settler [...] .

Elizabeth I in Writing

Language, Power and Representation in Early Modern England

D. Montini, I. Plescia (Eds.)

- Presents innovative scholarly work on the role of textuality in the life and reign of Elizabeth I
- Appeals to scholars interested in Elizabeth I's writing, early modern women's writing, the afterlife of Elizabeth I, early modern cultures of writing, and the history of English language and culture
- Examines Elizabeth I's exercise of political power through her non-political written works

This collection investigates Queen Elizabeth I as an accomplished writer in her own right as well as the subject of authors who celebrated her. With innovative essays from Brenda M. Hosington, Carole Levin, and other established and emerging experts, it reappraises Elizabeth's translations, letters, poems and prayers through a diverse range of approaches to textuality, from linguistic and [...] .

Premodern Rulers and Postmodern Viewers
Gender, Sex, and Power in Popular Culture
J. North, K. C. Alvestad, E. Woodacre (Eds.)

- Examines how modern gender ideologies influence representations of premodern monarchs in popular media
- Covers a wide range of recent and well-known films, television shows, and historical fiction from both European and American markets
- Appeals to scholars of medievalism, royal studies, and gender studies

Pop culture portrayals of medieval and early modern monarchs are rife with tension between authenticity and modern mores, producing anachronisms such as a feminist Queen Isabel (in RTVE’s Isabel) and a lesbian Queen Christina (in The Girl King). This book examines these anachronisms as a dialogue between premodern and postmodern ideas about gender and sexuality, raising questions of [...]

Medicine, Magic and Art in Early Modern Norway
Conceptualizing Knowledge
A. Ohrvik

- Traces conceptual ideas of knowledge in Norway from the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries
- Assesses how magic and medicine were viewed as practical and sacred in early modern Europe
- Utilises a wide range of early modern manuscripts from 1650-1850, known as Black Books

This book addresses magical ideas and practices in early modern Norway. It examines a large corpus of Norwegian manuscripts from 1650-1850 commonly called Black Books which contained a mixture of recipes on medicine, magic, and art. Ane Ohrvik assesses the Black Books from the vantage point of those who wrote the manuscripts and thus offers an original study of how early modern magical [...]
Labor in Colonial Kenya after the Forced Labor Convention, 1930-1963
O. Okia

- Covering the period following the author’s previous volume, Communal Labor in Colonial Kenya: The Legitimization of Coercion, 1912-1930, this study explores the role of forced labor in rural Kenya throughout the 1930s, 1940s and 1950s
- Shows how coercive labor practices continued in colonial East Africa following the passage of the ILO’s Forced Labor Convention in 1930
- Explores how communal labor was manipulated by the British administration as a form of punishment for those civilians thought to be supporting the Mau Mau rebellion in the 1950s

This book advances research into the government-forced labor used widely in colonial Kenya from 1930 to 1963 after the passage of the International Labor Organization’s Forced Labour Convention. While the 1930 Convention intended to mark the suppression of forced labor practices, various exemptions meant that many coercive labor practices continued in colonial territories. Focusing on East […]

Eisenhower and American Public Opinion on China
M. Oliva

- Features an in-depth examination of the interaction between American public opinion and President Eisenhower’s foreign policy toward the People’s Republic of China
- Offers new insights into Sino-American relations in the early Cold War
- Appeals to scholars of diplomatic history, the history of Sino-American relations, Cold War history, and modern U.S. history

In the 1950s, most of the American public opposed diplomatic and trade relations with Communist China; traditional historiography blames this widespread hostility for the tensions between China and the United States during Dwight D. Eisenhower’s presidency. In this book, Mara Oliva reconsiders the influence of U.S. public opinion on Sino-American relations, arguing that it is understudied and […]

Transpacific Correspondence
Dispatches from Japan’s Black Studies
Y. Onishi, F. Sakashita (Eds.)
• Examines Japan as an unexpected but critical site of scholarship on Black history, culture, and literature
• Advances scholarly conversations between African America, the African diaspora, and Japan
• Appeals to scholars of Black Studies, African American intellectual history, Afrodiasporic literature and culture, and Afro-Asian Studies
Since 1954, Japan has become home to a vibrant but little-known tradition of Black Studies. Transpacific Correspondence introduces this intellectual tradition to English-speaking audiences, placing it in the context of a long history of Afro-Asian solidarity and affirming its commitments to transnational inquiry and cosmopolitan exchange. More than six decades in the making, Japan’s Black […]

Remembering Queens and Kings of Early Modern England and France
Reputation, Reinterpretation, and Reincarnation
E. Paranque (Ed.)

- Considers how early modern rulers have been remembered and reimagined in literature and popular culture
- Features a wide chronological scope and a range of well-known and lesser-known rulers
- Appeals to scholars and students of queenship, early modern monarchy, royal studies, early modern history, women's history, literature, and popular culture

This collection examines the afterlives of early modern English and French rulers. Spanning five centuries of cultural memory, the volume offers case studies of how kings and queens were remembered, represented, and reincarnated in a wide range of sources, from contemporary pageants, plays, and visual art to twenty-first-century television, and from premodern fiction to manga and romance...

Australia, Migration and Empire
Immigrants in a Globalised World
P. Payton, A. Varnava (Eds.)

- Examines migration within the British Empire and wider 'Anglosphere', taking Australia as a focus with a series of case studies
- Examines the complex contact between settlers and indigenous peoples, informed by the diversity of migrants' backgrounds, ethnicities, religious affiliations and gender
- Argues that British-Irish migrants to Australia were not a homogenous group, but rather that these migrants exhibited distinctive cultural identities

This edited collection explores how migrants played a major role in the creation and settlement of the British Empire, by focusing on a series of Australian case studies. Despite their shared experiences of migration and settlement, migrants nonetheless often exhibited distinctive cultural identities, which could be deployed for advantage. Migration established global mobility as a defining...

S. Prieto

- Analyses the literary qualities and characteristics of First World War reportage
- Examines British and American authors, comparing their texts to the traditional rhetoric of First World War writing
- Provides a unique account of how the liminal experience of the Great War was expressed through literary journalism

This book deals with an aspect of the Great War that has been largely overlooked: the war reportage written based on British and American authors’ experiences at the Western Front. It focuses on how the liminal experience of the First World War was portrayed in a series of works of literary journalism at different stages of the conflict, from the summer of 1914 to the Armistice in November...

German Military Geology and Fortification of the British Channel Islands during World War II
E. P. F. Rose (Ed.)

- There is no other book on this topic, or a topic like it
- There is no other book that provides a regional case history of German military geology in World War II
- Germany made more use of military geologists during the war than Britain and the USA combined, but the information gathered, until this book, has mostly not available in English

How German armed forces made effective use of military geologists to assist their fortification of the Channel Islands after their capture from the British in 1940 – a unique case history, of German geologist expertise applied to British terrain, intended to make the Islands into an impregnable fortress that postwar would remain a permanent outpost of the German state.

N. G. Rosoff, S. Spencer

- Argues that constructed and essential femininities within school and college fiction transcend national boundaries
- Discusses the often contradictory components of femininity that combine to create a gendered ideal
- Examines the school stories of Jessie Graham Flower, Pauline Lester, Alice Ross Colver, Elinor Brent-Dyer, and Dorita Fairlie Bruce

This book examines school and college fiction for girls in Britain and the United States, written in the first half of the twentieth century, to explore the formation and ideologies of feminine identity. Nancy G. Rosoff and Stephanie Spencer develop a transnational framework that recognises how both constructed and essential femininities transcend national boundaries. The book discusses the ...

The Political Fragmentation of Germany
Formation of German states by Infrastructures, Maps, and Movement, 1815–1866
Z. M. Segal

• Takes a comparative approach to five significant German states to examine how national and territorial identities were constructed
• Argues that these political states are defined by the practices of the people, rather than intentional state- or nation-building ideologies
• Explores the impact of rising literacy, the development of new communication and transportation technologies, and the growing success of commercial cartography on people’s spatial and territorial perceptions

This book analyses the development of German territorial states in the nineteenth century through the prism of five Mittelstaaten: Bavaria, Saxony, Hanover, Württemberg, and Baden. It asks how a state becomes a place, and argues that it involves a contested and multi-faceted process, one of slow and uneven progress. The study approaches this question from a new and crucial angle, that of […]

Currencies of the Indian Ocean World
S. Serels, G. Campbell (Eds.)

• Offers a groundbreaking history of the complex multi-currency system of the Indian Ocean World
• Examines the economic as well as social, political and religious roles of currencies in the Indian Ocean World, from the thirteenth century to the present
• Offers case studies covering China, India, the Arabian Sea, the Red Sea, East Africa, Zanzibar, Madagascar, and Mauritius

This book is the first to trace the unique monetary history of the Indian Ocean World. Long-distance trade across the region was facilitated by a highly complex multi-currency system undergirded by shared ideas that transcended ethno-linguistic, religious and class divisions. Currencies also occupied key roles in local spiritual, aesthetic and affective practices. Foregrounding these tensions […]

France, Mexico and Informal Empire in Latin America, 1820-1867
Equilibrium in the New World
E. Shawcross

• Reappraises the significance of French interactions with Latin America from the 1820s to 1860s
• Proposes a new interpretation of the French military intervention in Mexico, as a strategic and ambitious attempt to resist the rise of US power in Latin America
• Contributes to the historiography of Latin American and Mexican intellectual and political history, exploring pan-Latinism, anti-Americanism and Mexican conservatism

This book explores French imperialism in Latin America in the nineteenth century, taking Mexico as a case study. The standard narrative of nineteenth-century imperialism in Latin America is one of US expansion and British informal influence. However, it was France, […]

Violence and Gender in Africa's Iberian Colonies
Feminizing the Portuguese and Spanish Empire, 1950s–1970s
A. Stucki

- Focuses on lesser-studied Iberian colonies in Africa as an example of late and reluctant decolonization
- Shows how the education and indoctrination of African women was perceived as essential in maintaining Portuguese and Spanish rule
- Draws on newly available primary materials in archives in Portugal, Spain and the United States, as well as accounts from African women themselves

This book examines how and why Portugal and Spain increasingly engaged with women in their African colonies in the crucial period from the 1950s to the 1970s. It explores the rhetoric of benevolent Iberian colonialism, gendered Westernization, and development for [...]

Britain, Europe and Civil Nuclear Energy, 1945–62
Power Politics
M. Theaker

- Explores the connections between Britain’s civil nuclear diplomacy and European integration in the immediate post-war period
- Highlights the importance of nuclear energy in diplomatic relations and the tensions between national politics and international scientific collaboration
- Includes new research from archives in Britain, America, Canada and Germany

This book examines the role played by civil nuclear energy in Britain’s relationship with Europe between the end of the Second World War and London’s first application to join the European Communities. Tracing the development of the British nuclear programme as it emerged as a global leader in constructing the world’s first atomic power stations, it analyses how the threat of energy shortages […]

Youth and Justice in Western States, 1815–1950
From Punishment to Welfare
J. Trépanier, X. Rousseaux (Eds.)

- Aims to reflect the lived experience of juveniles in the justice system and confinement institutions across the Western world
- Examines a range of cultural, social, political and legal experiences that have shaped responses to juvenile delinquents and deviant youths
- Offers a collection of case studies that assess the history of practices aimed at children and youth in juvenile institutions and before the courts

This book explores the treatment of juvenile offenders in modern Western history. The last few decades have witnessed major debates over youth justice policies. Juvenile and youth justice legislation has been reviewed in a number of countries. Despite the fact that new perspectives, such as restorative justice, have emerged, the debates have largely focused on issues that bring us back to the […]

Guido Culture and Italian American Youth
From Bensonhurst to Jersey Shore
D. Tricarico

- The first book-length work about Italian American ethnicity and youth culture
- Elucidates a theoretical perspective—social constructionism and segmented assimilation—that can explain Italian American cultural and social forms as a youth subculture
- Situates Guido in urban Italian American culture as an adaption to New York City over time

From Saturday Night Fever to Jersey Shore, Italian American youth in New York City have appropriated—and been appropriated by—popular American culture. Here, Donald Tricarico investigates how Italian ethnicity has been used to fashion Guido as a distinct youth style that signals inclusion in popular American culture and, simultaneously, the making of a new ethnic subject. Emerging from a wave […]

Theodore Sorensen and the Kennedys
A Life of Public Service
M. A. Ulyatt

- Offers an accessible biography of Theodore Sorensen, a speechwriter and key advisor of President John F. Kennedy
- Assesses Sorensen’s impact on President Kennedy’s legacy and the Democratic Party in second half of the twentieth century
- Appeals to scholars and students of twentieth-century American history, U.S. politics, and presidential decision-making and rhetoric

Of the hundreds of books written about John F. Kennedy, none have yet taken the full measure of the role that Theodore Sorensen played in shaping his presidency. Serving as President Kennedy’s speechwriter from 1952 until 1963, Sorensen was a key advisor in the White House and a gatekeeper of the Kennedy legacy in the years after his assassination. This book presents a compelling portrait of […]

Becoming a Good Neighbor among Dictators
The U.S. Foreign Service in Guatemala, El Salvador, and Honduras
J. van den Berk

- Features a unique focus on the personal interactions between rank-and-file members of the U.S. Foreign Service and dictatorial regimes
- Complicates popular academic narratives of the State Department’s support for despotic regimes in Latin America by debating the extent of U.S. complicity in sustaining these regimes
- Focuses on Guatemala, El Salvador, and Honduras, which have been under-studied in relation to U.S

Very few works of history, if any, delve into the daily interactions of U.S. Foreign Service members in Latin America during the era of Roosevelt’s Good Neighbor Policy. But as Jorrit van den Berk argues, the encounters between these rank-and-file diplomats and local officials reveal the complexities, procedures, intrigues, and shifting alliances that characterized the precarious balance of […]

Constructing Catalan Identity
Memory, Imagination, and the Medieval
M. A. Vargas

- Offers an accessible, engaging study of Catalonia’s medieval past and how it is used to construct cultural and political identity
- Appeals to students and scholars of European history, nationalism, memory studies, and medievalism
- Concludes with reflections on the 2017 referendum and declaration of independence

This is a book about how Catalans use their past, real and imagined, in the construction of their present and future. Michael A. Vargas inventories the significant people, signal events, and familiar icons that constitute the Catalan collective memory, from Wilfred the Hairy and Sant Jordi to the mountain monastery of Montserrat, red peasant caps, and human towers in town squares. Mass Political Culture Under Stalinism
Popular Discussion of the Soviet Constitution of 1936
O. Velikanova

- First full-length study of the Soviet Constitution of 1936 from the perspective of mass political culture
- Draws extensively on archival research to reveal popular opinion and comments about Soviet citizens’ values in relation to Stalinist reality
- Explores the co-existence of liberal and authoritarian ideas in Soviet society and how this dichotomy created tensions among citizens

This book is the first full-length study of the Soviet Constitution of 1936, exploring Soviet citizens’ views of constitutional democratic principles and their problematic relationship to the reality of Stalinism. Drawing on archival materials, the book offers an insight into the mass political culture of the mid-1930s in the USSR and thus contributes to wider research on Russian political [...]

Secularists, Religion and Government in Nineteenth-Century America
T. Verhoeven

- Presents a history of grassroots mobilizations in favor of a clearer division between religion and government
- Explores the complex alliances between various secularist campaigners, including religious skeptics, liberal Protestants, people of minority faiths, white supremacists and labor reformers
- Brings together case studies of church-state conflicts from the early Republic to the Progressive era

This book shows how, through a series of fierce battles over Sabbath laws, legislative chaplains, Bible-reading in public schools and other flashpoints, nineteenth-century secularists mounted a powerful case for a separation of religion and government. Among their diverse ranks were religious skeptics, liberal Protestants, members of minority faiths, labor reformers and defenders of slavery. [...]

- Shortlisted for the Saltire History Book of the Year 2018
- Explores the lives and ideas of five colonial reformers to reveal a transcolonial network of Scottish dissenters in the British Empire
- Recovers the experiences of Scottish Presbyterian dissenters from the fringes of colonial historiography

This book offers a new interpretation of political reform in the settler colonies of Britain’s empire in the early nineteenth century. It examines the influence of Scottish Presbyterian dissenting churches and their political values. It re-evaluates five notable Scottish reformers and unpacks the Presbyterian foundation to their political ideas: Thomas Pringle (1789–1834), a poet in Cape [...]

HIV Survivors in Sydney
Memories of the Epidemic
C. Ware

- Offers the first book-length account on how HIV and AIDS transformed the intimate lives of gay men in Sydney
- Moves beyond the usual focus on public mobilization and activism in the history of HIV and AIDS to foreground the stories of individual men and the impact of the disease on their personal lives
- Features oral histories of gay men diagnosed with HIV in Sydney before the advent of antiretroviral medication

Inner-city Sydney was the epicenter of gay life in the Southern hemisphere in the 1970s and early 1980s. Gay men moved from across Australasia to find liberation in the city’s vibrant community networks; and when HIV and AIDS devastated those networks, they grieved, suffered, and survived in ways that have often been left out of the historical record. This book excavates the intimate lives and [...]

The Society for the Oversea Settlement of British Women, 1919-1964

B. White

- Analyses the social, economic, and political structure of the Society for the Oversea Settlement of British Women
- Argues that the Society pursued its own agenda to train and place educated women looking for non-domestic service work in the dominions
- Challenges earlier studies’ focus on the Society’s failure to migrate a significant number of women from Britain to white settler colonies after 1924

This book examines the British government’s response to the ‘superfluous women problem’, and concerns about post-war unemployment more generally, by creating a migration society that was tasked with reducing the number of single women at home through overseas migration. The Society for the Oversea Settlement of British Women (SOSBW) was created in 1919 to facilitate the transportation of [...] About the author

Unmarried Motherhood in the Metropolis, 1700–1850
Pregnancy, the Poor Law and Provision
S. Williams

- Assesses the economic and emotional experience of unmarried mothers in London from 1700 to 1850
- Considers the delivery of poor relief and the system of affiliation which held parents responsible for the maintenance of their illegitimate children
- Examines the extent to which unmarried parents were shamed by their situation and how this changed over time

In this book Samantha Williams examines illegitimacy, unmarried parenthood and the old and new poor laws in a period of rising illegitimacy and poor relief expenditure. In doing so, she explores the experience of being an unmarried mother from courtship and conception, through the discovery of pregnancy, and the birth of the child in lodgings or one of the new parish workhouses. Sounding Otherness in Early Modern Drama and Travel
Uncanny Vibrations in the English Archive
J. L. Wood

- Demonstrates the significance of sound in cross-cultural encounters in early modern drama and travel writing
- Features QR codes in each chapter, giving readers access to sound recordings of the instruments discussed
- Appeals to students and scholars of Renaissance drama, travel literature, British literature, Shakespeare, sound and sensory studies, historical phenomenology, new materialisms, and music history

Sounds are a vital dimension of transcultural encounters in the early modern period. Using the concept of the soundwave as a vibratory, uncanny, and transformative force, Jennifer Linhart Wood examines how sounds of foreign otherness are experienced and interpreted in cross-cultural interactions around the globe. Many of these same sounds are staged in the sonic laboratory of the English […]

Zimbabwean Communities in Britain
Imperial and Post-Colonial Identities and Legacies
C. R. Zembe

- Using Zimbabwean communities in Britain as a case study, this book explores how imperial and post-colonial history has shaped and continues to shape African immigrant communities.
- Analyses why attempts to create a unified diaspora identity by some African immigrant communities proved to be an emotive process which could not conceal historic ethnic or racial tensions and prejudices.
- Highlights the increasing diversity of African immigrants in Britain, focusing on the dynamics and differences even within the relatively small Zimbabwean community.

This book examines why Zimbabwean immigrants in Britain should be viewed as a product of ethno-racial identities and prejudices developed and nurtured during the colonial and post-colonial [...]

Philosophical and Psychological Essays on Timing and Time Perception
A. Bardon, V. Arstila, S. Power, A. Vatakis (Eds.)

- Offers an interdisciplinary examination of our perception of time through the study of temporal illusions
- Demonstrates how valuable studies on timing and time perception are to furthering research on cognition and perception
- Explores the role cognition plays in explaining temporal illusions

This edited collection presents the latest cutting-edge research in the philosophy and cognitive science of temporal illusions. Illusion and error have long been important points of entry for both philosophical and psychological approaches to understanding the mind. Temporal illusions, specifically, concern a fundamental feature of lived experience, temporality, and its relation to a […]

Kant, Shelley and the Visionary Critique of Metaphysics
O. B. Bassler

- Continues to develop the concept of paraphysics as a form of visionary critique motivated by the enterprises of Kant and Shelley
- Situates Shelley in the context of romantic visionary design by comparing his venture to those of Blake and Keats
- Looks forward to visionary critique in the specific form of paraphysics as a philosophy of the future

This book addresses the philosophy of Kant and the poetry of Shelley as historical starting points for a new way of thinking in the modern age. Fusing together critical philosophy and visionary poetry, Bassler develops the notion of visionary critique, or paraphysics, as a model for future philosophical endeavor. This philosophical practice is rooted in the concept of the indefinite power […]

The Continuous, the Discrete and the Infinitesimal in Philosophy and Mathematics

J. L. Bell

- Explores the concept of the continuous and the infinitesimal
- Combines a history of philosophy with contemporary mathematics
- Gives a comprehensive historical and philosophical overview of the topic

This book explores and articulates the concepts of the continuous and the infinitesimal from two points of view: the philosophical and the mathematical. The first section covers the history of these ideas in philosophy. Chapter one, entitled 'The continuous and the discrete in Ancient Greece, the Orient and the European Middle Ages,' reviews the work of Plato, Aristotle, Epicurus, and other [...]

New Essays on Frege
Between Science and Literature

G. Bengtsson, S. Säätelä, A. Pichler (Eds.)

- Focuses on Frege's view of fiction and the use of figurative modes of speech in relation to scientific research and philosophical investigations
- Considers internal connections between different aspects of Frege's work while acknowledging the importance of its philosophical context
- Elucidates Frege's conception of logic and the relation between natural language and the Begriffsschrift

This volume collects nine essays that investigate the work of Gottlob Frege. The contributors address Frege's work in relation to literature and fiction (Dichtung), the humanities (Geisteswissenschaften), and science (Wissenschaft). Overall, the essays consider internal connections between different aspects of Frege's work while acknowledging the importance of its philosophical context. [...]

Cognitive Structural Realism
A Radical Solution to the Problem of Scientific Representation

M. D. Beni

- Dissolves the most vicious problem of scientific realism (i.e., the problem of scientific representation)
- Promotes and reconstructs the cognitive models of science approach
- Develops a new form of structural realism

In this book, the author develops a new form of structural realism and deals with the problem of representation. The work combines two distinguished developments of the Semantic View of Theories, namely Structural Realism (SR), a flourishing theory from contemporary philosophy of science, and Ronald Giere and colleagues' Cognitive Models of Science approach (CMSA). Readers will see how [...]

Weyl and the Problem of Space
From Science to Philosophy
J. Bernard, C. Lobo (Eds.)

- Deepens readers’ foundations of geometry, physics and the theory of continuum with an approach which is inextricably philosophical, historical and scientific
- Presents the first historical reconstitution of Weyl’s conferences on the problem of space
- Proposes an extensive philosophical approach to the different aspects of the problem of space

This book investigates Hermann Weyl’s work on the problem of space from the early 1920s onwards. It presents new material and opens the philosophical problem of space anew, crossing the disciplines of mathematics, history of science and philosophy. With a Kantian starting point Weyl asks: among all the infinitely many conceivable metrical spaces, which one applies to the physical world? In […]

Biological Robustness
Emerging Perspectives from within the Life Sciences
M. Bertolaso, S. Caianiello, E. Serrelli (Eds.)

- Reviews examples and notions of robustness at specific levels of biological organization
- Grounds general reflections upon concrete case studies
- Addresses core issues with clear and accessible language, favoring non-expert readers and fostering interdisciplinarity

This volume reviews examples and notions of robustness at several levels of biological organization. It tackles many philosophical and conceptual issues and casts an outlook on the future challenges of robustness studies in the context of a practice-oriented philosophy of science. The focus of discussion is on concrete case studies. These highlight the necessity of a level-dependent […]

Systems Thinking and Moral Imagination
Rethinking Business Ethics with Patricia Werhane
D. J. Bevan, R. W. Wolfe, P. H. Werhane (Eds.)

- Celebrates the work of one of the most highly-published, original and renowned senior philosophers in the field of Business Ethics
- Is a unique collection reflecting the past 25 years of Werhane’s work
- Brings together a range of Werhane’s papers and discusses them from various angles

This volume brings together a selection of papers written by Patricia Werhane during the most recent quarter century. The book critically explicates the direction and development of Werhane’s thinking based on her erudite and eclectic sampling of orthodox philosophical theories. It starts out with an introductory chapter setting Werhane’s work in the context of the development of Business […]

Quantum Reality and Theory of Śūnya

- Points out how the multifaceted concept of Śūnya, an ingenious insight of fertile and innovative Indian mind, can open up new horizons and intellectual vistas to help in enriching improvised western science and other knowledge disciplines
- Brings to light the forgotten intuitive realizations of Indian mathematicians who invented the theory of Zero and the decimal system
- Has profound ontological implications for the understanding of Reality as infinite and non-dual

The book deals with expounding the nature of Reality as it is understood in contemporary times in Quantum Physics. It also explains the classical Indian theory of Śūnya in its diverse facets. Thereafter it undertakes comparison between the two which is an area of great topical interest. It is a cross-disciplinary study by erudite Indian and western scholars between traditional Indian knowledge […]

Agency, Freedom and Choice
C. Binder

- Highlights the essential role of freedom's agency value in political and moral philosophy
- Contains a new and surprising argument for a value-based approach to overall freedom based on problems usually raised against
- It brings together the depth of philosophical insights on overall freedom with the rigour of axiomatic analysis reveals hidden assumptions in the literature on freedom rankings

In this book, Binder shows that at the heart of the most prominent arguments in favour of value-neutral approaches to overall freedom lies the value freedom has for human agency and development. Far from leading to the adoption of a value-neutral approach, however, ascribing importance to freedom's agency value requires one to adopt a refined value-based approach. Binder employs an axiomatic […]

Reflections on the Ethics and Politics of Poor Children and their Families
N. Brando, G. Schweiger (Eds.)
• First book on philosophy and child poverty
• Brings together different philosophical approaches on childhood and family poverty
• Provides philosophical insights into the concept of child poverty and its alleviation
This book offers a broad and diverse reflection of the ways in which child poverty could be conceptualised, and the ways in which it is intertwined with childhood as a specific social condition. Furthermore, the responsibilities towards children and the possible mechanisms required for dealing with this condition will be analysed and clarified. This is the first volume on philosophy and child poverty...

The Cordial Economy - Ethics, Recognition and Reciprocity
P. Calvo

- Shows the conceptualisation of the process of self-interest as operating for one's own benefit and its inclusion in the orthodox economic model
- Reflects on the critical process that has identified reciprocity as a determining factor for human cooperation
- Proposes guidelines for designing a monitoring and compliance system

This book proposes, from a civil perspective —such as that developed by Stefano Zamagni— and a cordial perspective —such as that developed by Adela Cortina—, orientations to design an economy in tune with what the historical moment demands. Among other things, this comes from encouraging institutions, organisations and companies to include in their designs aspects as important for carrying out [...]

Late Ancient Platonism in Eighteenth-Century German Thought
L. Catana

- Explains Platonism during the European Enlightenment
- Questions whether the term “Neoplatonism” should be discontinued
- Discusses the role of key figures in the 18th century, especially Johann Jakob

This work synthesizes work previously published in leading journals in the field into a coherent narrative that has a distinctive focus on Germany while also being aware of a broader European dimension. It argues that the German Lutheran Christoph August Heumann (1681-1764) marginalized the biographical approach to past philosophy and paved the way for the German Lutheran Johann Jacob […]

An Ecological Theory of Free Expression
G. Chartier

- Offers a robust, comprehensive defense of freedom of expression
- Supports freedom of expression with appeals to diverse overlapping and reinforcing considerations
- Defends an “ecology of expression” rather than focusing narrowly on individual self-expression

This book advances a comprehensive moral defense of freedom of expression—one with implications for law and policy, but also for the choices of individuals and non-governmental institutions. Gary Chartier seeks to ground expressive freedom in mutually supportive concerns related to themes including property, autonomy, flourishing, and discovery, while seeking to tightly cabin the range of […]

A System of Logic for African Philosophy and Studies
J. O. Chimakonam

- Introduces new concepts in African philosophy
- Gives insights for the intellectual transformation of African scholarship
- Offers an alternative logic system for grounding African philosophy and studies
The issue of a logic foundation for African thought connects well with the question of method. Do we need new methods for African philosophy and studies? Or, are the methods of Western thought adequate for African intellectual space? These questions are not some of the easiest to answer because they lead straight to the question of whether or not a logic tradition from African intellectual [...]

The Politics of Dependence
Economic Parasites and Vulnerable Lives
P. J. L. Cockburn

- Takes the topic of dependence as a starting point for examining the problems of economic justice generated by foundational social and economic institutions
- Offers a fresh, original take on issues of economic justice and dependence, going against the grain of most political theorising about economic justice today
- Integrates a wide range of scholarship including feminist political theory, economic sociology, economic anthropology, political philosophy, and legal theory

The central claim of this book is that the dichotomy between economic dependence and economic independence is completely inadequate for describing the political challenges faced by contemporary capitalist welfare states. The simplistic contrast between markets and states as sources of income renders invisible the relations of dependence established in our basic economic institutions such as […]

Formal Approach to the Metaphysics of Perspectives
Points of View as Access
J. J. Colomina-Almiñana

- Presents a formal approach to the metaphysics of perspective
- Offers a novel analysis of metaphysical grounding
- Includes a historical survey of relativism in the philosophy of science

This book offers a metaphysical development of the notion of perspective. By explaining the functional nature of point of view, and by providing a concrete definition of point of view as a window through which to see the world, it offers a scientific realist theory that explains that points of view are real structures that ground properties and objects as well as perspectives. The notion of […]

Kierkegaard, MacIntyre, Williams, and the Internal Point of View
R. Compaijen

- Offers a new perspective on a core issue within Kierkegaard research (reason and ethical life) and provides a critical evaluation of existing accounts of the subject
- Reconstructs, for the first time, the theoretical background of MacIntyre’s influential critique of Kierkegaard
- Extends the discussion to address whether Kierkegaard’s thought allows for the possibility of reasons to embrace Christian life

This book takes the debate about the (ir)rationality of the transition to ethical life in Kierkegaard’s thought in a significantly new direction. Connecting the field of Kierkegaard studies with the meta-ethical debate about practical reasons, and engaging with Alasdair MacIntyre’s and Bernard Williams’ thought, it explores the rationality of the choices for ethical life and Christian life.

Dimensions and Challenges of Russian Liberalism
Historical Drama and New Prospects
R. M. Cucciolla (Ed.)

- First book on the much debated issue of dimensions and challenges of Russia liberalism in a multidisciplinary and long-term perspective
- Appeals to readers interested of twentieth-century history, the collapse of Communism, transition, democratization and Russian studies
- Focuses on the dilemmas of liberalism in the Russian Imperial context while analyzing the political philosophy of Russian liberalism

Liberalism in Russia is one of the most complex, multifaced and, indeed, controversial phenomena in the history of political thought. Values and practices traditionally associated with Western liberalism—such as individual freedom, property rights, or the rule of law—have often emerged [...]

Don Pigozzi on Abstract Algebraic Logic, Universal Algebra, and Computer Science
J. Czelakowski (Ed.)

- Celebrates the life and work of Don Pigozzi
- Highlights Pigozzi's important contribution to the rise and development of abstract algebraic logic (AAL), universal algebra, and computer science
- Brings together an international group of scholars and Pigozzi's disciples

This book celebrates the work of Don Pigozzi on the occasion of his 80th birthday. In addition to articles written by leading specialists and his disciples, it presents Pigozzi's scientific output and discusses his impact on the development of science. The book both catalogues his works and offers an extensive profile of Pigozzi as a person, sketching the most important events, not only [...]

Substance in Aristotle’s Metaphysics Zeta
N. O. Dahl

• Argues for an interpretation of Z that runs against the current of most contemporary scholarship
• Offers a brief indication of the problems that arise in trying to understand Z and what can be done to solve them
• Written for those with a substantial interest in ancient philosophy, especially those concerned with Aristotle and his metaphysics

This book argues that according to Metaphysics Zeta, substantial forms constitute substantial being in the sensible world, and individual composites make up the basic constituents that possess this kind of being. The study explains why Aristotle provides a reexamination of substance after the Categories, Physics, and De Anima, and highlights the contribution Z is meant to make to the […]

Building Theories
Heuristics and Hypotheses in Sciences
D. Danks, E. Ippoliti (Eds.)

• Describes new findings and models concerning the construction of theories and hypotheses in science
• Brings together both normative and descriptive perspectives on the question of theory construction
• Explores novel perspectives on the uses of models, inferences, and heuristic reasoning in theory-building

This book explores new findings on the long-neglected topic of theory construction and discovery, and challenges the orthodox, current division of scientific development into discrete stages: the stage of generation of new hypotheses; the stage of collection of relevant data; the stage of justification of possible theories; and the final stage of selection from among equally confirmed […]

Quanta and Mind
Essays on the Connection between Quantum Mechanics and the Consciousness
J. A. de Barros, C. Montemayor (Eds.)

- Explores the possible connections between quantum mechanics and consciousness
- Looks at how consciousness research can deepen our understanding of quantum mechanics
- Considers how quantum mechanics can contribute to our knowledge of consciousness

This edited volume examines aspects of the mind/consciousness that are relevant to the interpretations of quantum mechanics. In it, an international group of contributors focus on the possible connections between quantum mechanics and consciousness. They look at how consciousness can help us with quantum mechanics as well as how quantum mechanics can contribute to our understanding of consciousness.

Articulating Intersex: A Crisis at the Intersection of Scientific Facts and Social Ideals
N. Delimata

- Describes how an individual's subjective identity can be hailed out of socially coherent existence at the moment of diagnostic disclosure of atypical sex (intersex)
- Provides an epistemic framework synthesising the perspectives of social and natural science facilitating dialogue and interdisciplinary collaboration
- Examines three different metaphysical perspectives on atypical sex (intersex) to identify which perspective maximises epistemic coherence between scientific fact and social ideals

This book explores the ethical dilemma clinicians may face when disclosing a diagnosis of atypical sex. The moment of disclosure reveals an epistemic incompatibility between scientific fact and social meaning in relation to sex. Attempting to assess the bio-psychosocial [...]

Jung’s Nietzsche
Zarathustra, The Red Book, and “Visionary” Works
G. Domenici

- Explores Jung’s opinion on Nietzsche changes and develops throughout Jung’s life
- Discusses the figure of ‘Christ’ and Nietzsche’s and Jung’s understandings of the ‘death of God’
- Offers a close reading of the Red Book in the light of Jung’s later seminar on Thus Spoke Zarathustra

This book explores C.G. Jung’s complex relationship with Friedrich Nietzsche through the lens of the so-called ‘visionary’ literary tradition. The book connects Jung’s experience of the posthumously published Liber Novus (The Red Book) with his own (mis)understanding of Nietzsche’s Zarathustra, and formulates the hypothesis of Jung considering Zarathustra as Nietzsche’s Liber Novus — both [...]

Habermas and Feminism
Critical Reflections on Normativity

T. Duncan

- Fills a gap in the literature by providing an updated critique and examination of Habermas’ thought (including his most recent work) as it relates to ethical and political feminist philosophy
- Explains how conceptions of diversity and relationality can supply a rich formulation of solidarity as the model for political action

In this volume, Taine Duncan offers a critique of Jürgen Habermas inspired by ethical and political feminist philosophy. She argues for a critical, theoretically grounded relational ethics and maintains that modern critical theory must be sensitive to social, political, and embodied difference. The utopian spirit of normative ethics, she suggests, can only be fairly achieved by fluidly working [...]

María Zambrano’s Ontology of Exile
Expressive Subjectivity

K. Enquist Källgren

- Among the first English language works on the Spanish philosopher, María Zambrano.
- Proposes that exile is not just as a theme or context for writing, but a fundamental aspect of Zambrano’s thought.
- Situates Zambrano’s thought in a larger European philosophical context.

This book analyzes the exile ontology of Spanish philosopher María Zambrano (1904-1991). Karolina Enquist Källgren connects Zambrano’s lived exile and political engagement with the Spanish Civil War to her poetic reason, and argues that Zambrano developed a theory of expressive subjectivity that combined embodiment with the expressive creativity of the human mind. The analysis of recurring [...]

- Offers a new approach to functional role semantics
- Contributes a novel combination of distributed and embodied semantics

This book presents a new approach to semantics based on Kazimierz Ajdukiewicz’s Directival Theory of Meaning (DTM), which in effect reduces semantics of the analysed language to the combination of its syntax and pragmatics. The author argues that the DTM was forgotten because for many years philosophers didn’t have conceptual tools to appreciate its innovative nature, and that the theory was […]

Fable, Method, and Imagination in Descartes
J. Griffith

- Shows that the traditional readings of Descartes are overly reductive, in particular the traditional claims that the Cartesian method is unrelated to fields like rhetoric and history and that the imagination is a passive mental faculty
- Incorporates readings of Descartes from both the analytic and continental traditions
- Makes Descartes not simply a historically important thinker, but one much closer to contemporary philosophy

What role do fables play in Cartesian method and psychology? By looking at Descartes’ use of fables, James Griffith suggests there is a fabular logic that runs to the heart of Descartes’ philosophy. First focusing on The World and the Discourse on Method, this volume shows that by writing in fable form, Descartes allowed his readers to break from Scholastic methods of philosophizing. With […]

Virtue Ethics: Retrospect and Prospect
E. Grimi (Ed.)

- Examines the reasons why the phenomenon of virtue has become so prevalent
- Takes into account the past as well as current philosophical research
- Outlines the authenticity, peculiarities and consequences of virtues in the context of the history of philosophy

The rise of the phenomenon of virtue ethics in recent years has increased at a rapid pace. Such an explosion carries with it a number of great possibilities, as well as risks. This volume has been written to contribute a multi-faceted perspective to the current conversation about virtue. Among many other thought-provoking questions, the collection addresses the following: What are the virtues, […]

Corps et Monde dans l’Autisme et la Schizophrénie
Approches ontologiques en psychopathologie
T. Grohmann

- Le premier livre à offrir une interprétation phénoménologique systématique d’expériences schizophréniques et autistiques à partir d’une analyse de la corporeté
- Le seul livre sur l’autisme et la schizophrénie par le prisme de la structure ambivalente du corps et sa double constitution subjective-objective
- Le premier livre à rendre accessible en langue française les plus récentes études psychopathologiques sur la corporeté dans l’autisme et la schizophrénie

Le livre offre une investigation phénoménologique des traits caractéristiques des troubles du spectre de l’autisme et de la schizophrénie. Son matériel de base sont des écrits autobiographiques ainsi que des descriptions de patients en première personne. L’objectif principal […]

Reading Iris Murdoch’s Metaphysics as a Guide to Morals
N. Hämäläinen, G. Dooley (Eds.)
• Brings together scholars of Iris Murdoch’s work to discuss Metaphysics as a Guide to Morals
• Fills a significant gap in scholarship on Murdoch
• Readable for a broad audience, of philosophers, theologians, literary scholars, and social scientists Metaphysics as a Guide to Morals was Iris Murdoch’s major philosophical testament and a highly original and ambitious attempt to talk about our time. Yet in the scholarship on her philosophical work thus far it has often been left in the shade of her earlier work. This volume brings together 16 scholars who offer accessible readings of chapters and themes in the book, connecting them to [...]

Revisioning Cambridge Platonism: Sources and Legacy
D. Hedley, D. Leech (Eds.)
• Examines both the sources and legacy of the Cambridge Platonists
• Offers new perspectives on a key but neglected group of English thinkers
• Features an interdisciplinary focus
This volume contains essays that examine the work and legacy of the Cambridge Platonists. The essays reappraise the ideas of this key group of English thinkers who served as a key link between the Renaissance and the modern era. The contributors examine the sources of the Cambridge Platonists and discuss their take-up in the eighteenth-century. Readers will learn about the intellectual [...]

Towards a Liberatory Epistemology
D. K. Heikes
• Combines an analysis of the epistemic and moral unjustness of ignorance with an argument designed to move us away from these injustices
• Expands the conversation surrounding understanding in an original and fruitful way
• Draws from cross-disciplinary sources to situate the work in current debate
This book offers a compelling examination of our moral and epistemic obligations to be reasonable people who seek to understand the social reality of those who are different from us. Considering the oppressive aspects of socially constructed ignorance, Heikes argues that ignorance produces both injustice and epistemic repression, before going on to explore how our moral and epistemic [...]

The Philosophy of Affordances
M. Heras-Escribano

- Explores the key philosophical features of affordances
- Proposes an innovative philosophical characterization of affordances as dispositional properties
- Analyzes the implications that a proper understanding of affordances has for the philosophy of mind and the cognitive sciences

This book is the first monograph fully devoted to analyzing the philosophical aspects of affordances. The concept of affordance, coined and developed in the field of ecological psychology, describes the possibilities for action available in the environment. This work offers a systematic approach to the key philosophical features of affordances, such as their ontological characterization, their [...]

Kant on Maxims and Moral Motivation
A New Interpretation
P. Herissone-Kelly

- Is an in-depth and carefully argued account of the model of rational agency underlying Kant’s moral philosophy
- Takes a wholly new slant on Kant’s moral thought
- Compares Kant’s moral philosophy with the work of Aristotle, John Searle, Iris Murdoch, Elizabeth Anscombe, Jean-Paul Sartre, and Brian O’Shaughnessy

This book outlines and circumvents two serious problems that appear to attach to Kant’s moral philosophy, or more precisely to the model of rational agency that underlies that moral philosophy: the problem of experiential incongruence and the problem of misdirected moral attention. The book’s central contention is that both these problems can be sidestepped. In order to demonstrate this, it [...]

Deleuze and Masculinity
A. Hickey-Moody

- Reconsiders the politics of Deleuze’s and Guattari’s approaches to psychoanalytic models of young masculinity
- Challenges scholars to take up Deleuze’s thought in order to re-shape gendered economies of knowledge and matter
- Employs Deleuze’s work to offer methods for understanding cultural pedagogies of gender

This book uses Deleuze’s work to understand the politics of masculinity today. It analyses masculinity in terms of what it does, how it operates and what its affects are. Taking a pragmatic approach, Hickey-Moody shapes chapters around key Deleuzian concepts that have proved generative in masculinity studies and then presents case studies of popular subjects and offers overviews of disciplines [...]

Arendt on Freedom, Liberation, and Revolution
K. Hiruta (Ed.)

- Offers a comprehensive attempt to consider Arendt’s theory of freedom and its political, legal and institutional ramifications in a single volume
- Examines both contested interpretive questions in Arendt scholarship and her legacy to some of the major debates of our time
- Considers Arendt’s work in light of later developments in political philosophy such as the recent literature on International Political Theory and the debate over neo-republican political thought pioneered by Philip Pettit

This edited volume focuses on what Hannah Arendt famously called “the raison d’être of politics”: freedom. The unique collection of essays clarifies her flagship idea of political freedom in relation to other key Arendtian themes such as liberation, revolution, civil disobedience, and the right to have rights. In addressing these, contributors to this volume juxtapose Arendt with a number of [...]?

Logical Form
Between Logic and Natural Language
A. Iacona

- Provides a clear presentation of the various uses of the term logical form, from the traditional to the more recent
- Examines the relation between logic and natural language, a classical issue that is crucial to the whole analytic tradition in philosophy
- Articulates a line of thought that has an enormous impact on some widely debated issues in philosophical logic

Logical form has always been a prime concern for philosophers belonging to the analytic tradition. For at least one century, the study of logical form has been widely adopted as a method of investigation, relying on its capacity to reveal the structure of thoughts or the constitution of facts. This book focuses on the very idea of logical form, which is directly relevant to any principled [...]?

The Body in Spinoza and Nietzsche
R. Ioan

- Provides a comparative study in the history of modern philosophy focused on Spinoza and Nietzsche's recourse to physiology
- Proposes Nietzsche and Spinoza's appeal to physiology as the key to solving fundamental philosophical problems
- Taps into the heart of the growing interest in the Spinoza-Nietzsche connection through detailed discussions of substance metaphysics and the ontology of power

This engaging volume sheds light on the central role the turn to the body plays in the philosophies of Spinoza and Nietzsche, providing an ideal starting point for understanding their work. Ioan explores their critiques of traditional morality, as well as their accounts of ethics, freedom and politics, arguing that we can best compare their respective philosophical physiologies, and their […]

- Fresh view on the science vs. religion debate
- Takes an analytic approach to humanism, philosophy, and religion
- Uses research in psychology, cognitive science, and anthropology

In the human quest for orientation vis-à-vis personal life and comprehensive reality the worldviews of religious and humanists offer different answers, and science also plays a crucial role. Yet it is the ordinary, embodied experience of meaningful engagement with reality in which all these cultural activities are rooted. Newton’s Sensorium: Anatomy of a Concept
J. C. Kassler

- Affords insights into the underlying model behind Newton’s sensorium concept
- Furthers understanding of both Isaac Newton and key developments in seventeenth century science
- Calls certain assumptions into question, enabling a fresh perspective on Newton and his works

These chapters analyze texts from Isaac Newton’s work to shed new light on scientific understanding at his time. Newton used the concept of “sensorium” in writings intended for a public audience, in relation to both humans and God, but even today there is no consensus about the meaning of his term. The literal definition of the Latin term ‘sensorium’, or its English equivalent ‘sensory’, is […]

Bergson’s Philosophy of Self-Overcoming
Thinking without Negativity or Time as Striving
M. Kebede

- Shows the strength and relevance of Bergson’s philosophy through systematic confrontations with phenomenology, Nietzscheism, neo-Kantianism, and dialectical thinking
- Highlights faulty interpretations of followers as well as opponents of Bergsonism
- Displays the critical reach and rich content of Bergsonian concepts

This book proposes a new reading of Bergsonism based on the admission that time, conceived as duration, stretches instead of passes. This swelling time is full and so excludes the negative. Yet, swelling requires some resistance, but such that it is more of a stimulant than a contrariety. The notion of élan vital fulfills this requirement: it states the immanence of life to matter, thereby […]

Total Collapse: The Case Against Responsibility and Morality
S. Kershnar
- The first book to deny that people are morally responsible and that morality exists and to connect these two claims
- Relates moral responsibility to foundationalism, internalism, and rights
- Tightly organized, concise, and accessible
This book argues that there is no morality and that people are not morally responsible for what they do. In particular, it argues that what people do is neither right nor wrong and that they are neither praiseworthy nor blameworthy for doing it. Morality and moral responsibility lie at the heart of how we view the world. In our daily life, we feel that people act rightly or wrongly, make the […]

A. Koslow
- Proposes several new theories concerning laws, explanation, physical theories, and modality
- Shows that any contingent generalizations that is explained, is thereby not an accidental generalization
- Explains how each physical theory is associated with a specific group of physical modal possibilities
The book has two parts: In the first, after a review of some seminal classical accounts of laws and explanations, a new account is proposed for distinguishing between laws and accidental generalizations (LAG). Among the new consequences of this proposal it is proved that any explanation of a contingent generalization shows that the generalization is not accidental. The second part involves […]

- Focuses on a relatively neglected theme in the scholarly literature on Hannah Arendt’s political thought
- Makes novel and unexpected connections between the council system Arendt advocated and other major themes in her work
- Highlights the key interdisciplinary concept “space” as a feature of Arendt’s thought that had been under appreciated
This book centers on a relatively neglected theme in the scholarly literature on Hannah Arendt’s political thought: her support for a new form of government in which citizen councils would replace contemporary representative democracy and allow citizens to participate directly in decision-making in the public sphere. - Provides a critique of current discourses of allyship
- Illustrates a powerful distinction between an identity politics that is conflict-producing, backward-looking to one that is hopeful and conflict-resolving

This book interrogates white responses to black-led movements for racial justice. It is a philosophical self-reflection on the ways in which 'white' reactions to Black Lives Matter stand in the way of the movement's important work. It probes reactions which often prevent white people from according to black activists the full range of human emotion and expression, including joy, anger, [...]

- An innovative new book focusing specifically on political philosophy of mind
- Asks how do social institutions in contemporary neoliberal democratic state systematically affect our thoughts, feelings, and agency
- Builds on contemporary research in embodied cognition, enactivism, and the extended mind

Building on contemporary research in embodied cognition, enactivism, and the extended mind, this book explores how social institutions in contemporary neoliberal nation-states systematically affect our thoughts, feelings, and agency. Human beings are, necessarily, social animals who create and belong to social institutions. But social institutions take on a life of their own, and literally [...]

Paolozzi and Wittgenstein
The Artist and the Philosopher
D. Mantoan, L. Perissinotto (Eds.)

- Illuminates the links between Eduardo Paolozzi and Ludwig Wittgenstein
- Explores how Wittgenstein’s idea of art influenced the initiator of pop art
- Provides cross-disciplinary insight into Wittgenstein’s philosophy as applied to contemporary art

This impressive edited collection investigates the relationship between British Pop Art pioneer Eduardo Paolozzi and the philosopher Ludwig Wittgenstein. At this time, when Paolozzi’s oeuvre is in the process of being rediscovered, his long-time fascination with Wittgenstein requires thorough exploration, as it discloses a deeper understanding of his artistic production, further helping to [...]

H. Matsumaru, Y. Arisaka (Eds.)

- Serves as an excellent introduction for understanding Nishida's overall philosophy
- Brings together top Japanese scholars on the essential concepts of Nishida Philosophy
- Includes most recent research on Nishida Philosophy from Japan

This book offers the first comprehensive collection of essays on the key concepts of Kitaro Nishida (1870-1945), the father of modern Japanese philosophy and founder of the Kyoto School. The essays analyze several of the major philosophical concepts in Nishida, including pure experience, absolute will, place, and acting intuition. They examine the meaning and positioning of Nishida's […]

The Metaphysics of Science and Aim-Oriented Empiricism
A Revolution for Science and Philosophy
N. Maxwell

- Puts forth a view of science that contradicts standard empiricism
- Details a concept that holds that untestable, metaphysical theses form a permanent part of scientific knowledge
- Expounds and critically assesses many of the key works in the metaphysics of science published from 2007 to 2018

This book gives an account of work that I have done over a period of decades that sets out to solve two fundamental problems of philosophy: the mind-body problem and the problem of induction. Remarkably, these revolutionary contributions to philosophy turn out to have dramatic implications for a wide range of issues outside philosophy itself, most notably for the capacity of humanity to […]

Philosophy and the ‘Dazzling Ideal’ of Science
G. McFee

- Defends the possibility of philosophy against a prevalent scientism
- Presents a vision of philosophy that does not presuppose a ‘dazzling ideal’ associated with science
- Explores the conditions for the possibility of philosophy

Recent decades have seen attacks on philosophy as an irrelevant field of inquiry when compared with science. In this book, Graham McFee defends the claims of philosophy against attempts to minimize either philosophy's possibility or its importance by deploying a contrast with what Wittgenstein characterized as the “dazzling ideal” of science. This ‘dazzling ideal’ incorporates both the […]

Metaphysics of States of Affairs
Truthmaking, Universals, and a Farewell to Bradley's Regress
B. R. Meinertsen

- Presents a metaphysics of Armstrongian states of affairs as the instantiations of universals by particulars linked together by a unique relation
- Includes detailed accounts of the constituents of states of affairs
- Provocatively argues that the particulars in states of affairs are bare particulars

This book addresses the metaphysics of Armstrongian states of affairs, i.e. instantiations of naturalist universals by particulars. The author argues that states of affairs are the best candidate for truthmakers and, in the spirit of logical atomism, that we need no molecular truthmakers for positive truths. In the book’s context, this has the pleasing result that there are no molecular states [...]

Bioethics in the Pediatric ICU: Ethical Dilemmas Encountered in the Care of Critically Ill Children
L. Miller-Smith, Á. Finnsdóttir Wagner, J. D. Lantos

- The only book that addresses bioethical issues that are specific to the pediatric critical care setting
- Addresses the root causes of moral distress in the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit (PICU)
- Helps doctors and nurses think about end-of-life decisions for children

This book examines the many ethical issues that are encountered in the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit (PICU). It supports pediatricians, nurses, residents, and other providers in their daily management of critically ill children with the dilemmas that arise. It begins by examining the evolution of pediatric critical care, and who is now impacted by this advancing medical technology. Subsequent [...]

On the Decline of the Genteel Virtues
From Gentility to Technocracy
J. Mitchell

- Brings together a wealth of diverse material to document the rise and fall of gentility
- Draws an original link between what we think of as ‘moral conscience’ and the ‘ethos of good taste’
- Proposes the elite social order of gentility as an important but often overlooked influence behind moral philosophy

This innovative book proposes that what we think of as “moral conscience” is essentially the exercise of reflective judgment on the goods and ends arising in interpersonal relations, and that such judgment constitutes a form of taste. Through an historical survey Mitchell shows that the constant pendant to taste was an educational and cultural ideal, namely, that of the gentleman, whether he […]

Moral Certainty and the Foundations of Morality
N. O’Hara

- Offers a new perspective and a rigorously argued case for the place of basic moral certainty at the foundation of our human moralities
- Argues that some of our foundational basic moral certainties are universal in scope, that is are held by all functioning moral agents
- Pushes for a new understanding of the source of our moral thinking, by introducing the notion of ‘primary recognition’

What lies at the foundation of our moral beliefs? If we dig down far enough do we find that our moral values have no ground at all to stand on, and so are apt to collapse upon serious philosophical investigation? This book seeks to answer these and related questions by positing an indubitable foundation for our moral beliefs – they arise from the phenomenon of ‘primary recognition’, and are [...]

- Comprehensively addresses rival views in normative ethics
- Presents a novel perspective on how to assess moral theories

This posthumous publication attempts to address the question of what moral code is the most reasonable. Philosophers often turn to consequentialism or deontological ethics to address this issue. As the author points out, each has valid arguments but each is unable to get the other side to agree. To rectify this, he proposes a third way. - Adds valuable insight to the burgeoning debate surrounding contemporary body and image theory
- Explores the possibilities of a new theoretical approach to the body as a medium and a communicative part of the relationship between visibility and social-cultural construction
- Provides a cross-disciplinary critical analysis of Merleau-Ponty’s phenomenology of the body and Lacan’s psychoanalysis

This book builds on the works of Artaud and Deleuze, setting forth a different way of thinking on the body through the use of a whole new set of conceptual tools. Paić argues that the human body has become obsolete in relation to the development of cybernetics and artificial intelligence, proposing that it can be understood neither as a bare thing nor a machine, but instead as an event. Being Written
D. Pimentel

Offers a comprehensive account on the relation between Heidegger and Derrida
Shows a new and critical perspective on Heidegger’s philosophy
Presents a unique account of the relationship between Heidegger’s thought and his political engagement during the Nazi regime in Germany

Heidegger with Derrida: Being Written attempts, for the first time, to think Heidegger’s philosophy through the lens of Derrida’s logocentric thesis, according to which speech has, throughout the history of metaphysics, been given primacy over writing. The Theoretic Life - A Classical Ideal and its Modern Fate
Reflections on the Liberal Arts
A. S. Rosenthal-Pubul

- Covers such figures as Socrates, Plato and Aristotle in the ancient world and Bacon, Descartes, Spinoza, Hume, Kant, Nietzsche, and Dewey in modern philosophy
- Deals capacious with the topic of the theoretic life in both ancient and modern philosophy
- Addresses the topical issue of the “crisis of the humanities” in modern education and culture

In this work, Alexander Rosenthal Pubul presents a broad examination of the ancient philosophical question: “What is the good life?”, while addressing how the liberal arts can help us to answer this question. Greek philosophy distinguished between the “noble” (what is good in itself), from the merely “useful” (good for something else). From thence follows the distinction between the liberal [...]

Ultralogic as Universal?
The Sylvan Jungle - Volume 4
R. Routley, Z. Weber (Eds.)

• A seminal text that has had a major influence on the development of non-classical logic by a founder of paraconsistent and relevant logic
• Provides an expansive and singular vision of how advances in logic can solve major problems in set theory, arithmetic, probability, and science
• Includes new commentaries alongside the original essay

Ultralogic as Universal? is a seminal text in non-classical logic. Richard Routley (Sylvan) presents a hugely ambitious program: to use an ‘ultramodal’ logic as a universal key, which opens, if rightly operated, all locks. It provides a canon for reasoning in every situation, including illogical, inconsistent and paradoxical ones, realized or not, possible or not. A universal logic, Routley […]

A. Sales (Ed.)

• Shows how Corporate Social Responsibility has developed into a strong and rich institutional domain
• Expresses new institutional theories where institutions must be defined by goals and logic translated into referential and procedural repertoires created and implemented by active networks
• Centers on agent and institutional approaches from social sciences in interdisciplinary perspectives

This wide-ranging book examines the new dynamics of corporate social responsibility (CSR) and the impact they have had on the transformation of business corporations. Written by an international group of distinguished experts in management and organization studies, economics and sociology, the book leads one to theoretically and practically rethink CSR, a movement that has developed into a […]

Free Will and Consciousness in the Multiverse
Physics, Philosophy, and Quantum Decision Making
C. D. Schade

• Collects evidence for the multiverse interpretation of quantum mechanics
• Shows that the fabric of decisions is different from what is currently assumed
• Derives consequences for philosophy, decision sciences, psychology and economics

It is hard to interpret quantum mechanics. The most surprising, but also most parsimonious, interpretation is the many-worlds, or quantum-multiverse interpretation, implying a permanent coexistence of parallel realities. Could this perhaps be the appropriate interpretation of quantum mechanics? This book collects evidence for this interpretation, both from physics and from other fields, and […]

Post-Truth, Scepticism & Power
S. Sim

- Contextualises post-truth and ‘fake news’ within the philosophical discourse of truth
- Explores the threat of a politics based on post-truth on the tradition of liberal democracy
- Provides a rigorous defence of the political and philosophical virtues of holding to the truth

This book examines the concept of post-truth and the impact it is having on contemporary life, bringing out both its philosophical and political dimensions. Post-truth is contextualised within the philosophical discourse of truth, with particular reference to theories of scepticism and relativism, to explore whether it can take advantage of these to claim any intellectual credibility. Sim [...]
The Ethics of Reproductive Genetics
Between Utility, Principles, and Virtues
M. Soniewicka (Ed.)

- Brings together a group of distinguished scholars on the much debated topic of the moral, legal and social challenges of reproductive genetics
- Presents a review of the major ethical theories used in the context of justifying morally right decisions in medical practice and biomedical research
- Contributes highly to the global debate on reproductive genetics and medical ethics

This book is aimed at analyzing the foundations of medical ethics by considering different moral theories and their implications for judgments in clinical practice and policy-making. It provides a review of the major types of ethical theory that can be applied to medical and bioethical issues concerning reproductive genetics. In response to the debate on the most adequate ethical doctrine to [...]
A Systems Approach to Language Pedagogy
A. Tajino (Ed.)

- Applies a systems approach to language pedagogy, which can help practitioners and researchers alike understand the whole picture of the field and manage its various aspects from a holistic perspective.
- Discusses theoretical issues related to language pedagogy, including a systems approach to curriculum development, language acquisition, grammar instruction, and vocabulary teaching.
- Includes an overview of both theoretical and practical issues related to language pedagogy, which can promote dynamic communication and collaboration between researchers and practitioners, and make language pedagogy more meaningful.

This volume represents the first attempt in the field of language pedagogy to apply a systems approach to issues in English language education. In the literature of language [...]

Georges Canguilhem and the Problem of Error
S. Talcott

- Fills a gap in the market: Few books explore the relationship between Georges Canguilhem and Michel Foucault, despite the significance of the relationship and Canguilhem’s influence on Foucault’s thought.
- Presents and represents the culmination of substantial new archival research, giving readers a view into Canguilhem’s unpublished courses on error, among other things.
- Will hold wide appeal for a broad range of scholars in various philosophy sub-disciplines (including history of philosophy, philosophy of medicine, philosophy of science, French continental philosophy, epistemology) as well as Foucault scholars.

Examining Georges Canguilhem’s enduring attention to the problem of error, from his early writings to Michel Foucault’s first major responses to his work, this pathbreaking book shows that the historian of science was also a centrally important philosopher in postwar France. Samuel Talcott elucidates Canguilhem’s contributions by drawing on previously neglected publications and archival [...]

Analyzing Violence Against Women
W. Teays (Ed.)

- Timely study of an important issue in the public eye - violence against women.
- Examines a topic long overlooked or given limited attention in the society in general and Philosophy in particular.
- Spotlights actions and policies that merit closer analysis and reflection.

This timely anthology brings into sharp relief the extent of violence against women. Its range is global and far reaching in terms of the number of victims. There are deeply entrenched values that need to be rooted out and laid bare. This text offers a philosophical analysis of the problem, with important insights from the various contributors. Topics range from sexual assault to media [...]

Hermeneutics of Human-Animal Relations in the Wake of Rewilding

The Ethical Guide to Ecological Discomforts

M. Tokarski

- Provides a unique, in-depth and systematic discussion of the role of wildness and 'ecological discomforts' in modern culture
- Makes a substantial contribution to the nascent field of environmental hermeneutics, illustrating its practical application
- Addresses the contentious and pressing issues of wildlife impacts and conflicts, which have gained high societal relevance in the context of recent attempts at ecological restoration

In consequence of significant social, political, economic, and demographic changes several wildlife species are currently growing in numbers and recolonizing Europe. While this is rightly hailed as a success of the environmental movement, the return of wildlife...[

Dao Companion to Chinese Buddhist Philosophy

Y. Wang, S. A. Wawrytko (Eds.)

- A rare and serious approach to Chinese Buddhism as philosophy
- An examination of the process whereby Buddhism became grounded in China's intellectual culture
- Reading and assessing the texts of Chinese Buddhism within the Chinese cultural context

Too often Buddhism has been subjected to the Procrustean box of western thought, whereby it is stretched to fit fixed categories or had essential aspects lopped off to accommodate vastly different cultural norms and aims. After several generations of scholarly discussion in English-speaking communities, it is time to move to the next hermeneutical stage. Buddhist philosophy must be liberated […]

Constructive Semantics
Meaning in Between Phenomenology and Constructivism

C. Weiss (Ed.)

- Identifies connections and differences between phenomenology and constructive logic
- Treats both specific and general questions on the possibility of constructive phenomenology
- Considers a unified constructive and phenomenological epistemology

This edited book brings together research work in the field of constructive semantics with scholarship on the phenomenological foundations of logic and mathematics. It addresses one of the central issues in the epistemology and philosophy of mathematics, namely the relationship between phenomenological meaning constitution and constructive semantics. S. Welch

- Contributes to a growing area: Native American Philosophy
- Provides an in-depth analysis of epistemology offered from within Native Studies and American Indian Studies
- Intersects with Native Studies, Cognitive Science, Dance Theory, and Performance Philosophy

This book investigates the phenomenological ways that dance choreographing and dance performance exemplify both Truth and meaning-making within Native American epistemology, from an analytic philosophical perspective. Given that within Native American communities dance is regarded both as an integral cultural conduit and “a doorway to a powerful wisdom,” Shay Welch argues that dance and […]

- The first book to cover the field of endurance sport and sustainability from a combined analytic-continental perspective
- Aimed at a wide audience including policy makers, sport scientists and environmental philosophers
- Builds on a unique perspective of continental philosophical tradition but also “ecosophy” and American pragmatism

This book provides new perspectives on endurance sport and how it contributes to a good and sustainable life in times of climate change, ecological disruption and inconvenient truths. It builds on a continental philosophical tradition, i.e. the philosophy of among others Peter Sloterdijk, but also on “ecosophy” and American pragmatism to explore the idea of sport as a voluntary attempt to [...]"}

Universal Biology after Aristotle, Kant, and Hegel
The Philosopher’s Guide to Life in the Universe
R. D. Winfield

- Provides an outline of a universal biology that transcends the contingencies of life on earth
- Builds on the seminal achievements of Aristotle, Kant and Hegel
- Shows the fundamental forms that life can take wherever in the universe living things may arise

Here is a universal biology that draws upon the contributions of Aristotle, Kant, and Hegel to unravel the mystery of life and conceive what is essential to living things anywhere they may arise. The book develops a philosopher’s guide to life in the universe, conceiving how nature becomes a biosphere in which life can emerge, what are the basic life processes common to any organism, how [...]"

Neuroethik
Eine Einführung
J. Heinrichs

- Junge Disziplin der Neuroethik wird umfassend vorgestellt
- Ethik des Umgangs mit Manipulationen des menschlichen Geistes
- Moralishe Herausforderungen jenseits von Labor und Arztpraxis

Das Buch bietet eine Gesamtdarstellung der noch relativ jungen Disziplin der Neuroethik. Es führt die derzeit separat geführten Diskussionen der forschungs- und medizinethisch ausgerichteten Ethik in den Neurowissenschaften mit der in professionellen und öffentlichen Diskussionen vernachlässigten alltäglichen Ethik des Umgangs mit Manipulationen des menschlichen Geistes jenseits von […]

Reformation im Islam
Perspektiven und Grenzen
J. E. Klußmann, M. Kreutz, A. Sarhan (Eds.)

- Aktuelle Studien zum Islam in der modernen Welt
- Beiträge zu einer Schicksalsfrage des Islam
- Interdisziplinärer und interreligiöser Zugang

Dass der Islam in der modernen Welt, die von Demokratie, Säkularismus und Fortschritt geprägt ist, nur bestehen könne, wenn er eine Reformation durchlaufe, wird von den einen behauptet, von den anderen bestritten und ist Gegenstand einer bis heute andauernden Debatte, die sich mindestens bis auf das frühe 20. Jahrhundert zurückverfolgen lässt. Dieser Sammelband lässt Stimmen für und wider eine […]

Philosophie der Existenz
Aktuelle Beiträge von der Ontologie bis zur Ethik
A. Luckner, S. Ostritsch (Eds.)
• Existenz – ein philosophisches Dauerthema seit über 2000 Jahren
• State of the art der deutschsprachigen philosophischen Forschung zum Thema 'Existenz'
• Führende Philosophen unterschiedlichster Schulen sind hier versammelt
Kaum ein anderer philosophischer Grundbegriff hat so vielfältige und auf den ersten Blick disparate philosophische Debatten hervorgebracht wie der Begriff der Existenz. Dieses Buch versammelt aktuelle Beiträge zu historisch-metaphysischen, semantischen, ontologischen sowie existenzialistischen Fragen. Mit der thematisch-inhaltlichen Vielfalt geht auch eine methodisch-schulische Vielfalt [...]

Natur denken
Eine Genealogie der ökologischen Idee. Texte und Kommentare
P. C. Mayer-Tasch, A. Adam, H. Schönherr-Mann (Eds.)
• Einführung und Überblick
• Grundlagen für ein Denken der Nachhaltigkeit
• Zeitlose Aktualität
Dieses Buch bietet einen weit zurückgreifenden Einblick in die abendländische Naturphilosophie. Beginnend mit den Vorsokratikern als erstem Höhepunkt des europäischen Naturbegriffs erfasst der Band alle Epochen der Geistesgeschichte: die Antike, christliche und mittelalterliche Naturvorstellungen, die Revolution des Naturdenkens in der Renaissance, den neuzeitlichen Naturbegriff und die [...]

Philosophie des Mittelalters
Eine Einführung
H. Möhle
• Zugang zu mittelalterlichen philosophischen Texten wird verständlich vermittelt
• Transfer auf aktuelle Fragestellungen
• In zweifarbigem Layout mit Abbildungen, Definitionen, Zeittafeln und Vertiefungskästen
Das Lehrbuch bietet eine Kombination von Sachinformation und beispielhafter Textanalyse ausgewählter Originalwerke der mittelalterlichen Philosophie. Ziel ist es, den Lesern nicht nur Informationen über Bereiche der mittelalterlichen Philosophie und ihre Hintergründe zu vermitteln, sondern die hermeneutischen Fähigkeiten auszubilden, sich selbstständig Texte einer zunächst fremden Epoche zu [...]

Philosophische Anthropologie
R. Schaeffler

- Grundlegende Fragen der philosophischen Anthropologie
- Vernunft als Prinzip der philosophischen Anthropologie
- Neuer Band der Reihe "Das Bild vom Menschen und die Ordnung der Gesellschaft"

Die hier erstmals veröffentlichte Philosophische Anthropologie des weltweit anerkannten Religionsphilosophen Richard Schaeffler (1926 bis 2019) ist eine Reflexion auf die seit jeher das Nachdenken der Menschen bewegende Frage „Wer bin ich?“. Immanuel Kant behauptet, dass die Frage nach dem Menschen sogar die ihr vorgehenden drei Leitfragen der gesamten Philosophie überhaupt – die Fragen nach [...]

Der Erkenntniswert von Fehlfunktionen
Die Analyse von Ausfällen, Defekten und Störungen als wissenschaftliche Strategie
B. Schweitzer

- Einzigartige Studie zur Funktion von Fehlern in der wissenschaftlichen Arbeit
- Umfassender und systematischer Überblick
- Wissenschaftstheoretischer Beitrag zu einem wichtigen, aber wenig beachteten Thema

Diese philosophische, interdisziplinäre Studie untersucht, auf welche Weise Fehlfunktionen einen einzigartigen Zugang zu Daten für Entdeckung und Prüfung von Theorien in vielen Wissenschaften bieten. Anhand von Beispielen aus Biologie, Evolution, Linguistik, Kognitionsphilosophie und anderen arbeitet sie die Funktionsweise wissenschaftlicher Methoden heraus, die versuchen, aus der Analyse von [...]
