Body Disownership in Complex Posttraumatic Stress Disorder

Y. Ataria

- Develops the concept of disownership toward the entire body from phenomenological and cognitive perspectives
- Has an interdisciplinary appeal to scholars in phenomenology, cognition, psychology, psychiatry, cultural studies, trauma studies, and philosophy
- Includes an innovative and expansive focus on the phenomenon of disownership as it applies to the whole body, not just particular limbs

This book explores the long-term outcomes of severe and ongoing trauma—particularly complex posttraumatic stress disorder (C-PTSD)—from phenomenological and cognitive perspectives. For example, C-PTSD can result in impairments at the body-schema level. In order to survive, trauma victims may conduct their lives at the body-image level, thus producing a mismatch between body schema and body [...]
Life on the Autism Spectrum
Translating Myths and Misconceptions into Positive Futures
M. Bennett, A. A. Webster, E. Goodall, S. Rowland

• Presents current research from across education, psychology, disability studies, and medicine
• Enriches and expands directions for future practice
• Offers a neurodiversity perspective on autism myths

This book presents a unique exploration of common myths about autism by examining these myths through the perspectives of autistic individuals. Examining the history of attitudes and beliefs about autism and autistic people, this book highlights the ways that these beliefs are continuing to impact autistic individuals and their families, and offers insights as to how viewing these myths from [...] [more]

Decolonial Feminist Community Psychology
F. Boonzaier, T. van Niekerk (Eds.)

• Disrupts current hegemonic discourse on feminism in community psychology to re-situate it in the context of the global South
• Foregrounds intersectional African, black, postcolonial, and indigenous feminist community psychology perspectives in theory and practice
• Offers concrete examples for modes of engagement, research, dialogue, and reflexive practice for practitioners

This edited volume seeks to critically engage with the diversity of feminist and post-colonial theory to counter hegemonic Western knowledge in mainstream community psychology. In doing so, it situates paradigms of thought and representation that capture the lived experiences of those in the global South. Specifically, the book takes an intersectional approach towards its reshaping of [...]

Those Who Come After
Postmemory, Acknowledgement and Forgiveness
S. Frosh

- Discusses how to learn from the recent past in order not to repeat its devastating effects
- Investigates ideas of relevance to trauma studies, psychoanalysis, memory studies, postcolonial studies and psychosocial studies
- Confronts a question with broad ramifications in Holocaust studies, the legacies of slavery, genocides, and authoritarian violence

This book explores the legacies of suffering in relation to ‘those who come after’ – the descendants of victims, survivors and perpetrators of traumatic events. It draws on recent discussions of ‘postmemory’ and ‘haunting’ that are concerned mainly with the transgenerational impact of personal and social trauma. It examines how we are connected to past events for which we have no direct [...]

Black Men, Intergenerational Colonialism, and Behavioral Health
A Noose Across Nations
D. E. Grant Jr.

- Discusses the psychological, ecological and biological responses to the components of colonialism and imperialism
- Fosters a global movement toward change through a sense of connectedness across the diaspora
- Assesses psychological and behavioral health data across four industrialized nations

This book provides an in-depth historical exploration of the risk and protective factors that generate disproportionality in the psychological wellness, somatic health, and general safety of Black men in four industrialized Euronormative nations. It provides a detailed analysis of how nationalism, globalism, colonialism, and imperialism have facilitated practices, philosophies, and policies to [...]

Research Methods in Indigenous Contexts
A. Groh

- Highlights the increasing necessity of research in indigenous contexts, and the potential problems for researchers and members of indigenous cultures that run parallel to this trend
- Links the research methodology pertinent to indigenous contexts with ethical aspects and the current legal situation
- Lays a strong applicational emphasis that will help researchers to effectuate the appropriate methodology and to design their field research in an optimized way

This forward-looking resource offers readers a modern contextual framework for conducting social science research with indigenous peoples. Foundational chapters summarize current UN-based standards for indigenous rights and autonomy, with their implications for research practice. Coverage goes on to detail minimally-invasive data-gathering methods, survey current training and competency [...]

Madness and Genetic Determinism
Is Mental Illness in Our Genes?
P. D. Hahn

- Challenges theories of genetic determinism for mental illness, particularly schizophrenia
- Discusses weaknesses of past research in twin and adoption studies to suggest that environmental factors play a major role in mental illness
- Provides a historical examination of mental illness with particular focus on institutionalization

The book covers important topics in the psychiatric genetics (PG) field. Many of these have been overlooked in mainstream accounts, and many contemporary PG researchers have omitted or whitewashed the eugenic and “racial hygiene” origins of the field. The author critically analyzes PG evidence in support of genetic claims which, given the lack of gene discoveries, are based mainly on the […]

Perceptual Organization
An Integrated Multisensory Approach
S. Handel

- Use of electronic supplementary materials (audio and video files) is cutting-edge in this area
- Fills a void between basic sensation and perception textbooks and more specialized graduate-level books
- Approaches complex psychological topics in a writing style that was accessible to students outside that discipline

This textbook goes beyond introductory sensory perception by incorporating supplementary electronic materials to demonstrate the parallels between both hearing and seeing. Each chapter intermixes seeing and hearing processes so that students can easily understand that perceptual organization is the same across different kinds of sensations and modalities. Figures illustrating visual […]

- Assesses the extent to which social change modifies these cultural patterns

This book analyzes kidnapping in various forms and from various perspectives. First it argues that kidnapping, including the threat of kidnapping, reflects a breakdown in the mechanisms of social control in society. This volume also discusses the ways governments and para-military and terrorist groups employ kidnappings as part of their foreign and domestic policy. This analysis evaluates why [...]

Building Early Social and Emotional Relationships with Infants and Toddlers

Integrating Research and Practice

A. S. Morris, A. C. Williamson (Eds.)

- Synthesizes research on infant attachment, family relationships, caregiving practices, and social-emotional development
- Presents an integrated theory of building early relationships across disciplines, including psychology, education, family studies, and pediatrics
- Focuses on specific developmental periods from birth through three years

This book provides a comprehensive overview of the process of building healthy early social and emotional relationships with infants from a developmental perspective. The book synthesizes current research on the contextual influences of attachment, family relationships, and caregiving practices on social-emotional development. Chapters examine the processes of socioemotional [...]

Repeating Hate
Narratives of Loss and Anxiety Among the Hungarian Far Right
J. S. Murer

- Explores the rise of anti-Semitism and anti-Roma violence in Hungary following the collapse of Communism in 1989 through a psychosocial perspective
- Argues that current violence reaches back into past disquiet that has not been resolved
- Provides a deep understanding of extremist violence, adding to our understanding of future upsurges that are not yet visible

This book explores the psychosocial implications of how narratives of hate can affect identities, with a particular focus on Hungary.

Addiction in South and East Africa
Interdisciplinary Approaches
Y. Ndasauka, G. M. Kayange (Eds.)

- Draws on interdisciplinary research to propose specific solutions to combat substance abuse and related concerns
- Includes a consideration of recent issues related to substance abuse, such as unemployment and and illness
- Refuses to work from assumptions about drug and alcohol use in East Africa and instead pursues an unbiased examination of existing research

This book explores both the existence and prevalence of addiction in South and East Africa, departing from traditional assumptions about addiction in the region. The authors employ an interdisciplinary approach to understand the actual prevalence of addiction and the forms it takes in South and East Africa. The book also addresses the perceptions and conceptualisation of addiction in the [...]

Sexually Violent Predators: A Clinical Science Handbook
W. T. O’Donohue, D. S. Bromberg (Eds.)

- Provides concise, portable professional reference for mental health practitioners
- Takes an evidence-based approach to psychometrics, risk assessment, and prediction of unlawful sexual behavior
- Editors are well-respected experts on issues of sexuality and sexual offending behaviors

This information-rich volume expands current knowledge about sexually violent predators and critiques SVP laws with the goal of fostering improvements in clinical practice and public policy. It offers a finely detailed evidence base on this problematic class of offenders, including the complex interactions of biophysiological and environmental factors that contribute to criminal sexual behavior.

Likelihood-Free Methods for Cognitive Science

- Provides an in-depth foundation of approximate Bayesian analysis (ABC)
- Offers a tutorial demonstration of a popular model in cognitive science that can be readily adapted to other models
- Reviews many of the most prominent algorithms for performing likelihood-free Bayesian analysis

This book explains the foundation of approximate Bayesian computation (ABC), an approach to Bayesian inference that does not require the specification of a likelihood function. As a result, ABC can be used to estimate posterior distributions of parameters for simulation-based models. Simulation-based models are now very popular in cognitive science, as are Bayesian methods for performing...

Health, Safety and Well-Being of Workers in the Informal Sector in India
Lessons for Emerging Economies
S. Panneer, S. S. Acharya, N. Sivakami (Eds.)

• Contributes to an important area in labour studies and public health: the health and safety of informal sector workers in developing countries
• Covers a wide range of industries in order to grasp the implications of current work conditions for workers’ health and well-being
• Provides perspectives on a diverse demographic — women, religious minorities, older workers, the disabled, and transgender workers — along with the adult male workforce

This book focuses on the core problems of occupational health, safety and well-being of workers in the informal sector in developing countries, where it accounts for most of the rural labour force and a substantial percentage of the urban labour force. The sector is characterised by low incomes, unstable employment and lack of protection in the form of legislation/policies or trade unions. […]

Psychological Ownership and Consumer Behavior
J. Peck, S. B. Shu (Eds.)

• Expands on the construct of psychological ownership, placing it in the contexts of both individual consumer behavior and the wider decision-making of consumer populations.
• Analyzes the social conditions and cognitive processes concerning shared consumer experiences and psychological ownership.
• Discusses possibilities for socially responsible forms of psychological ownership.

This pathbreaking volume expands on the construct of psychological ownership, placing it in the contexts of both individual consumer behavior and the wider decision-making of consumer populations. An individual’s feeling of ownership toward a target represents the perception that something is “mine!”, and is highly relevant to buying and relating to specific goods, economic and health […]

Practicing Transcendence
Axial Age Spiritualities for a World in Crisis
C. Peet

• Argues for radical transformation of our practices of consumption and of our potential for violent conflict as a necessary response to a 21st century world in crisis
• Explores the effects of spiritual practice for both personal and communal resilience to counter contemporary end of the world anxieties and tribalism
• Looks to history to inform solutions to present-day problems such as global warming and political strife

This book introduces readers to the concept of the Axial Age and its relevance for a world in crisis. Scholars have become increasingly interested in philosopher Karl Jaspers’ thesis that a spiritual revolution in consciousness during the first millennium BCE decisively shaped world history. Axial ideas of transcendence develop into ideologies for world religions and civilizations, in turn […]

R. Soreanu

- Formulates a theory of collective trauma and a theory of recognition
- Discusses how collectives mourn through protest
- Builds on the trauma theory of psychoanalyst Sándor Ferenczi and his idea of the ‘confusion of tongues’

Working-through Collective Wounds discusses how collectives mourn and create symbols. It challenges ideas of the irrational and destructive crowd, and examines how complicated scenes of working-through traumas take place in the streets and squares of cities, in times of protest. - Re-invigorates and re-envision the theoretical psychology
- Addresses themes and theories to make history relevant to theoretical psychology

This volume presents a re-envisioning of the field of theoretical psychology and offers unique visions for its present and future from leaders of North American philosophical psychology. It contends that theoretical psychology has reached ‘middle-age’ and must consider new directions to renew its growth. Rooted in a range of research traditions and the intellectual biographies of its authors, […]

A Psychology of Liberation and Peace
For the Greater Good
C. E. F. Thompson

- Presents a re-formulated theory of racial identity, building on the work of historians, writers, and theorists
- Makes space for activists and other individuals outside of academia within the author’s comprehensive theory
- Expands on American racial politics to address racial identity on a global scale

This book addresses the need to radically transform societies plagued by racism. It places prominence on persistent racialized violence in the lives of Black Americans as influential in how Black people in the U.S. and abroad perceive themselves as Black in juxtaposition to their perceptions of White people and other People of Color. An absence of understanding of the often-masked role of […]

Conducting Systematic Reviews in Sport, Exercise, and Physical Activity
D. Tod

- Offers a thorough, logical, and progressive guide to systematic reviews
- Provides pedagogical features allowing readers to apply the methods to their own content area of interest
- Debunks common misunderstandings and out-of-date thinking relating to meta-analyses and qualitative research

This book offers a conceptual and practical guide to the systematic review process and its application to sport, exercise, and physical activity research. It begins by describing what systematic reviews are and why they assist scientists and practitioners. Providing step-by-step instructions the author leads readers through the process, including generation of suitable review questions; […]

Discourse Ontology
Body and the Construction of a World, from Heidegger through Lacan
C. Tombras

- Opens up a dialogue between Martin Heidegger’s philosophy of being and Jacques Lacan’s post-Freudian metapsychology
- Reveals Lacan’s rupture with traditional philosophy and how it builds on Heidegger’s critique
- Describes the ontological recursive construction of a shared ontic world

This book explores the themes within, and limits of, a dialogue between Martin Heidegger’s philosophy of being and Jacques Lacan’s post-Freudian metapsychology. It argues that a conceptual bridging between the two is possible, and lays the foundations of that bridge, starting with Heidegger and proceeding through the work of Lacan. After presenting basic aspects of Heidegger’s ontology, […]

The Process of Psychotherapy
Causation and Chance
W. Tschacher, H. Haken

- Provides a complete overview of the current state of psychotherapy research
- Offers state-of-the-art statistical tools that can be used to measure datasets and time series in psychotherapy processes
- Explores the differences between deterministic and stochastic forces

This book describes an encompassing modeling approach to psychotherapy, created with the most recent research in the field. Therapeutic interventions are staged within a therapist-client relationship (‘alliance’), and become effective by the interplay of deterministic (‘causation’) and stochastic (‘chance’) forces. The authors use a Fokker-Planck approach complemented by a […]

Joint Models of Neural and Behavioral Data
B. M. Turner, B. U. Forstmann, M. Steyvers

- Presents a one-of-its-kind flexible Bayesian framework for combining neural and cognitive models
- Provides an approach that reveals interactions between behavioral and neural parameters
- Offers tools and resources for the application of the joint modeling approach

This book presents a flexible Bayesian framework for combining neural and cognitive models. Traditionally, studies in cognition and cognitive sciences have been done by either observing behavior (e.g., response times, percentage correct, etc.) or by observing neural activity (e.g., the BOLD response). These two types of observations have traditionally supported two separate lines of study.

Evidence-based Positive Psychological Interventions in Multi-cultural Contexts
L. E. Van Zyl, S. Rothmann, Sr. (Eds.)

- Provides empirically validated interventions that have significant effect on the development of positive psychological capacities and attributes in multi-cultural situations
- Discusses interventions applicable through the lifespan of individuals
- Presents a multidisciplinary view on the implementation of positive psychology interventions in clinical, educational and work-related contexts

This volume presents clearly defined and described evidence-based positive psychology interventions (PPIs), which have been validated in multi-cultural contexts. It discusses validated PPIs which have been shown to have a significant impact in both clinical and real-world settings. From the late 1990s, there has been an upsurge in popular psychological “self-help” publications drawing from these interventions.

Handbook of Cardiovascular Behavioral Medicine
S. Waldstein, W. Kop, L. Katzel (Eds.)

- There is no similar work available with such scope of coverage
- Inclusion of relevant measurement issues and construct definitions of a comprehensive set of risk factors is of great assistance to researchers and clinicians who wish to improve their assessment of these variables yet are not sufficiently familiar with or trained in the various methodologies
- Multidisciplinary contributors enhances the utility of the work

Cardiovascular disease is the leading cause of morbidity and mortality in the United States and most other westernized nations. It is well recognized that traditional risk factors for cardiovascular disease have limited predictive utility in the identification of new cardiovascular disease cases and outcomes. Thus, investigators have argued that application of a biopsychosocial research approach is essential.

Shame Regulation Therapy for Families
A Systemic Mirroring Approach
U. Weinblatt

- Offers an innovative approach to dealing with shame in therapy
- Integrates practical methods
- Discusses how shame disrupts interpersonal communication

This accessible guide introduces systemic mirroring, an innovative approach to understanding and managing the disruptive presence of shame in family therapy. Shame is analyzed in individual and interpersonal contexts, and in two basic problematic states—experiencing too much or too little shame—often found at the root of serious problems between children and their parents. Forensic Psychology in Germany
Witnessing Crime, 1880-1939
H. Wolffram

- Provide an overview of the interdisciplinary and highly contested development of forensic psychology in Imperial and inter-war Germany
- Illuminate the evolution of this field through attention to forensic practice as well as theories and debates
- Aims to open a dialogue with other scholars about the multi-disciplinary roots and early history of forensic psychology in the German context

This book examines the emergence and early development of forensic psychology in Germany from the late nineteenth century until the outbreak of the Second World War, highlighting the field’s interdisciplinary beginnings and contested evolution. Initially envisaged as a psychology of all those involved in criminal proceedings, this new discipline promised to move away from an exclusive focus on [...] About the author

Scientific Pollyannaism
From Inquisition to Positive Psychology
O. Yakushko

- Highlights the various ways scientism can reflect and support socially oppressive structures and attitudes
- Reviews historical attempts within American mainstream psychology to promote positivity and productivity through the supposedly unarguable sciences of research
- Orient the concept of Pollyannaism within the larger context of scientism, positive psychology, and the systematic oppression of minority groups

This book argues that the story of the orphan girl Pollyanna (namely, her strategy of playing the “glad games” to manage loss, abuse, and social prejudice) serves as a framework for critiquing historical forms of Western scientific Pollyannaism. The author examines Pollyannaism as it relates to the sciences, demonstrating how the approach has been used throughout modern Western history to [...] About the author

Understanding and Treating Military Sexual Trauma
K. Zaleski

- How military culture and military law affect the immediate aftermath of MST
- Examines current research on treatment and effectiveness of various therapies for MST related trauma
- Details the various diagnosis that result from MST

This authoritative update presents current findings on—and clinically and ethically sound responses to—the epidemic of sexual assault in the military. It examines in powerful detail how military culture enables a pervasive subculture of sexual violence, from consistently devaluing women to blaming victims and denying them justice. Business-Coach trifft Philosophen
Ein Dialog
S. J. Schmidt, W. Schwertl

- Groß aufgespannter Schirm zwischen Theorie und Praxis
- Zur Vertiefung einladende Sprache
- Differenzierter Dialog zwischen Theorie und Praxis

SJ Schmidt als bekannter Geisteswissenschaftler und Walter Schwertl Praktiker im Bereich Business-Coaching nähern sich in Dialogform der Frage, wie ein Geisteswissenschaftler und ein Praktiker eine hinreichend gemeinsame Konzeption von Kommunikation erarbeiten können. Gerade zwischen hoch abstrakten Theorien selbstreferentieller Systeme und dem, was als systemische Praxis bezeichnet wird, […]

Wirtschaftspsychologische Grundlagen für Personalmanagement
Fach- und Lehrbuch zur modernen Personalarbeit
M. Treier

- Systematisch:
  - an der Wertschöpfungskette der Personalarbeit ausgerichtet und stringent nach den Stationen der Personalarbeit aufgebaut
- Handlungsorientiert:
  Eine moderne Personalarbeit kann es sich in Anbetracht der Herausforderungen der Arbeit 4.0, des demografischen Wandels und Fachkräftemangels nicht leisten, Personal nur zu verwalten, denn der Mensch avanciert zum Potenzial- und Wertschöpfungsträger. Personalarbeit transformiert sich deshalb zum Gestalter mit dem erklärten Ziel, das organisationale Verhalten des Personals zielgerichtet zu […]
